Some Western News
Mr. Boeing's New Plane
Mexico Rest for Weary
Cheap Money—Bad Sign
—By Arthur Brisbane—

LOS ANGELES, March 20—Two pieces of news here. Bribing jurors spreads from East to West. Men accused of public robbery through a swindling oil company simply bought their way out of trouble by bribing jurymen. The Los Angeles Examiner supplied the facts.

It would be interesting to know how big a part that system plays in our "Justice," and to what extent it accounts for the fact that the rich man usually is not convicted.

A gasoline war cuts price as low as thirteen and a half cents. Big companies say they know nothing about it.

The real gasoline war is one of service. Standard Oil amazed you by training gasoline station men not to accept a tip, after giving you air and water free, scrubbing your windshield and inquiring for your health, even though you bought no gasoline.

Deterding of the Shell Co. improves even on that. When you drive up to one of his stations two men spring out, one on each side of you, and if you want to know where McCadden ave. is, they beam with delight as they give the information, and if you choose will go with you. That's modern gas service.

Interesting sight on the United Aircraft flying field at Burbank, at the edge of Los Angeles, this morning.

E. E. Boeing, upon whose air genius C. E. Mitchell of the National City Bank built his biggest aircraft company, was on hand, trying a new machine, not yet named.

All metal monoplane, with fuselage above the short wings, it flew 170 miles an hour, and climbed almost as straight as an elevator shaft.

It has a Pratt-Whitney wasp engine, a Hamilton propeller. Eddy Bellandi, the pilot, said he could start it in a 100-foot lot. Mr. Boeing, who knows more about airplanes than most men, thinks there is something new for fliers in that machine.

Charles E. Mitchell, and everybody interested in flying should see the new United Aircraft flying field and terminal here—most modern, probably finest in the world. The landing and starting runways point in every direction for all possible winds, with three million square feet of soft elastic pavement, equivalent to more than 60 miles of ordinary paved road.

On the sides of the paved runways alfalfa fields kept cut down to ten inches will offer a soft carpet on which small planes may land.

It is fortunate that some big pocketbooks are interesting themselves in flying. It needs the money.

Jack Northrop, head of the Northrop Aircraft Company, a unit of United Aircraft, designed the new plane shown today.

Watch that auburn-haired young American. He may surprise the world's airplane builders.

While wets and drys discuss prohibition, many high-spirited Americans, sitting comfortably in automobiles, are on their way south to the Mexican border.

Just across the line they find Tia Juana, hospitable Mexican village, with a bar 200 feet long, excellent beer, at a low price, ready to entertain the HOLLOL. A little farther on smooth roads take the thirsty traveller to the new and magnificently appointed resort, Agua Caliente, arranged to appeal to the Brahmin tourist class.

The stream of cars pouring southward reminds you of traffic at Michigan and Madison in Chicago, or 57th st. and Park ave. in New York.

All those south-bound cars take American money to a very shiny managed Mexican resort, with good music, good food, excellent French and other wines at reasonable prices.

In the Casino you may lose as much as you choose. Part of it is only accessible to those wearing "evening dress."

Fine golf links, and one of the finest race courses in the world, offering this week the world's biggest purse for one horse race, $150,000, are part of Agua Caliente's attractions.

It is said the Mexican government will abolish all gambling within the Republic. Probably, however, an exception will be made in favor of thirsty Americans with a taste for roulette, baccarat and similar mental relaxation. They are bound to get rid of their money somewhere, why not hand it to our Mexican friends? Some of it is spent for roads, some for good schools.

This Western country reads with interest that the "Call Money" interest rate in New York is 2 per cent today and what explains the sudden drop from 15 to 20 per cent to 2 per cent. There is no such cheap money out here, and the West

FIND MISSING WITNESS IN GARRETT CASE

Income Tax Officials Start a New Probe Into the Ex-Raider's Finances

Atty.-Gen. Warner's investigators today identified the defaulting witness in the "Onlywon Pool" case and are close on his trail after a three weeks' search. He is the witness who disappeared after telling police he took orders from Garrett in the printing of pool tickets.

Today's important developments attending the attorney-general's investigation of pensioned liquor raider Oliver B. Garrett were:

1—Receipt by Attorney-General Joseph E. Warner of a warning to "Lay off Garrett!"

2—Investigation of Garrett's finances and returns by state and federal tax officers.

3—Probe of organized liquor, vice and drug traffic by the attorney-general.

4—Questioning of a former Boston policeman by Warner's assistants.

5—Ways and Means Committee reports "Ought to pass" on the new Garrett investigation resolve.

The warning to "Lay off Garret!" contained only those three words heavily written in pencil on a single sheet of note paper. It arrived with some 25 other anonymous communications relative to the Garrett case. Addressed to "Attorney-General Warner, Room 327 (the wrong number), State House," it was mailed in Boston yesterday.

AGE PENSION BILL IS SENT TO HOUSE

Reported Unanimously by the Committee; Thore Opposes the 70-Year Provision

An old age assistance bill for persons above 70 years of age, residents of the State for more than 20 years, was today reported unanimously in the House by the committee on pensions.

The cost under the proposed bill is estimated at from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 annually. The state would contribute one-third, under the measure, of what the cities and towns spend.

To supervise the proposed act, a bureau of old age pensions would be established in the state department of public welfare. It would take effect on July 1, 1931.

The bill is based on petitions filed by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Wendell P. Thore of Squantum, Joseph LaFountaine of Brookline and Albert W. Bullock of Waltham.

Thore, father of the non-contributory old age pension idea, has served notice that he will fight the measure. The 70-year limit he characterizes as "a pension in the grave."

HUB IS SAFE FOR CRIME, ASSERTS MAYOR

Wants Less Milkmen on Force; Has Plan to Curb Underworld

Opening a war on crime and criminals in the Hub, Mayor Curley today took a fling at the Garrett case and declared that if he was in charge of the police there would be "more patrolmen and fewer milkmen."

The mayor intimated that the criminal element understands that safety is to be had in Boston.

"There is something wrong with the police department in Boston," he told the City Federation of Women's Clubs at the Y. W. C. A. in Clarendon st. "That is apparent from the price that is being charged for milk right now.

"Since I was mayor last there has been an increase of 425 policemen, despite the fact that the traffic light signals have gone into use. Boston now has the largest police force per capita and per acre of any city in the entire world."

In view of the crime situation, Mayor Curley said, he has held a conference, within the last 10 days, with Dist. Atty. Foley, Police Commissioner Wilson and heads of other departments with a view toward steps to halt crime.

There will be another conference next month with the same men.

"The underworld element," he said, "is operating in Boston with a more than reasonable degree of safety, and I intend to move for a policy under which a person committing a capital crime in this city will be subject to bail of not less than $25,000.

"Bail jumping has become too common a practice. There are some lawyers who, with a safe-blower as a client, bail him for $5000, then tell him to go out and blow another safe and beat it.

"I should like to see an habitual criminal law under which three such criminal would give a man 25 years in prison. No more suspensions. No more placing on file.

"We must say to that crew who are being pushed out of Chicago by the citizens' movement there, and from New York by the Seabury law, that Boston is an unsafe place to come to.

"Why has the cost of the conduct and activities of the police department, since I left it, increased from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000?

"The situation, as it now stands, has caused a growing disrespect for all law. There has been an increase in the cost of the police department and in the cost of prosecution. There has been an increase in the cost of institutions where are incarcerated people who violate the law.

"There has been an increase in disrespect for law and there has been an increase in the desire among people to flaunt all law."

Taft's Estate Valued at $475,000

Mr. Taft's personal estate, comprising stocks, bonds and personal effects, was estimated at $350,000.

Mrs. Taft added that his debts, including the expenses of the funeral, would not exceed $3000.

FEDERAL AND STATE OFFICIALS LAUNCH NEW GARRETT TAX PROBE

fesses amazement at the 35 Garrett bank accounts read into the records of Attorney-General Joseph E. Warner's investigation.

Federal authorities have obtained a copy of the testimony dealing with this phase of the probe and they are making their own comparison with previous federal records said to have shown the existence of only 15 accounts.

HUNT FOR MONEY

Unlike the attorney-general, the federal investigators are interested in the disposition of funds withdrawn from the banks last November when the tax returns of Garrett and his wife were under their fire. Commissioner Long, too, is interested in where this money, shown to have been in excess of $10,000, now reposes.

The mandate no longer confining his probe to matters "related" to the Garrett pensioning was favorably reported by the ways and means committee which endorsed the $10,000 appropriation as additional to that previously spent.

In the meantime, the attorney-general's investigation, about to be enlarged by increased power and finances by the Legislature, was aimed to plumb the very depths of organized liquor, vice and drug traffic in the Hub.

VICE LEADER QUIZZED

The House is expected to pass the resolve Monday morning. The Senate, having recessed until Monday, will vote on it Monday afternoon and Governor Allen will undoubtedly sign it before leaving Boston Monday night.

In which case, when the public hearings resume on Tuesday, the attorney-general will be invested with the power to compel testimony and to grant immunity to witnesses.

A leader of the vice ring has already been questioned. The investigation is going deep into illicit liquor traffic in the Hub. Already, it is understood, investigators have learned of one big ring under the control of one man and alleged to exist through the medium of police protection.

The startling allegation has been made to the attorney general's aides that outside speakeasy proprietors have been allowed to open liquor establishments on certain police division if they agreed to buy their stock in trade from the ruler of Boston's bootleg kingdom, and pay tribute to certain policemen.

Millions of dollars, over a period of several years' rule, have flowed into the coffers of this organized rum ring, it is held.

Today a leader patrolman was called to the State House and questioned by Warner and his special assistant, Damon E. Hall in connection with bootlegging activities.

A bootlegger's wife, questioned yesterday, was said by Asst. Atty-Gen. Lourie to have had a "convenient memory." She will be called as a witness.

In connection with his inquiry into organized vice, the Attorney-General has received a report made to Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson by Capt. George W. Patterson, junior and vice squad head, during the investigation of white slave traffic that followed the murder of Semmy Reinstein in Boston last September.

This report, covering a period of nearly five years, from January 13, 1925, to August 17, 1929, contains reports on 154 vice cases and the names of those prosecuted. All named are prospective witnesses when the public hearings are resumed.

Disposition of cases as reported by Capt. Patterson was as follows:

64 discharged.
27 fined $50 to $500.
26 suspended sentences.
11 committed to jail.
14 probation.
3 appealed cases.
4 defaulted.
3 placed on file.

Once the new probe order investing Warner with the power to grant immunity is signed by the Governor, the Attorney-General's office expects a flood of incriminating evidence from disgruntled proprietors of liquor and vice dens who already have anonymously written that they had paid graft to the police.

Warner's fighting statement, in which he charged that his witnesses were being throttled, was indication that already the "powers" behind Boston's organized illicit barter in rum, drugs and vice have become frightened and are putting pressure on suspected sources of convicting information.

The attorney-general's challenge to "this man and his gang" and "the little gang that has been running things" forecasts a clean-up of certain rotten conditions alleged to have existed for a long time, either with the knowledge of some police or beyond the extent of their vision.

"Will he get anywhere?" has been a common question with reference to the attorney-general since the investigation was first ordered. From the tenor of his "fighting statement" he evidently expects to get somewhere. And wherever he is going, the personnel of the Boston Bar Association's committee of eight is bound to help him, as is the new legislative mandate.

The personnel of the committee is announced as follows:

Chairman, Thomas W. Proctor, Robert G. Dodge, James J. McCarthy, Alexander Lincoln, Samuel Hoar, Max S. Bernkopf, Robert Proctor and Daniel J. Lyne.

Andrew Brauer, clerk at police headquarters and for 30 years a member of the department, called at the attorney-general's office today to correct a misunderstanding resulting from the testimony of William Lyons, Garrett farm milk driver.

Lyons testified he made deliveries at the home of a policeman named Brauer in Penfield st., Roslindale.

Brauer, who told Asst. Atty-Gen. Lourie he never even knew Garrett was in the milk business, began investigations on his own as a result of the published testimony and discovered that the Garrett route customer was another policeman connected with the liquor squad who had evidently been receiving the milk in Brauer's name.

The headquarters clerk went to this policeman and questioned him about it, he said, and was given the answer: "Well, what difference does it make?"

It made such a difference to Brauer, however, that he told Lourie his discovery and the attorney-general's office announced Brauer's name would be taken from the records of the investigation.

Other letters received at the Attorney-General's office today included the following:

"Capt. ——— is collecting as much as $——. He's getting $150 monthly from one house alone. That is known to ——— and ———, but nothing has ever been done about it."

There was no signature. Another letter:

"As I am going to New York for good, here's some info. ——— was collecting every week from a Columbus ave. house. The money was given to him by ——. Somebody else is getting it now. Why don't you check it up and find out who's getting it."

Every letter is being investigated, Lourie said.

Police Clerk Didn't Know Garrett Was in Milk Business

Andrew Brauer, police headquarters clerk named by William Lyons as a customer on the Garrett milk route, never even knew Garrett was in the milk business. He conducted a little investigation of his own and discovered that milk had been left for another policeman, a member of the liquor squad.

He asked this policeman what it was all about and received the answer:

"Well, what difference does it make?"

Warner Receives Report on New Ritz Hotel Probe

Report of a three weeks' investigation in connection with the famous Hotel Ritz case has been turned over by Asst. Atty.-Gen. Lewis H. Sawyer to Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner, for use in the Garrett case, it was learned today.

The report is understood to contain material which was barred during the Ritz trial by the late Judge Quinn.

Asst. Atty.-Gen. Sawyer was a schoolmate of Albert K. Sidlinger, one of those convicted in the Ritz case, when they were boys in the West End, and much of the information gleaned has been from Sidlinger, who is now at Deer Island.

Statements made by Sidlinger, it is understood, probably will be turned over to State Officers John Stokes and Joseph Ferrari for further investigation.

The Ritz Hotel case never quite lived up to its promise of sensational developments.

In outline, as presented in the courts, it was this:

In March of 1928, following evidence furnished by Raymond L. Parry and Nicholas Cockinos, Watch and Ward Society investigators, Oliver B. Garrett and five members of the Boston police department liquor squad raided the Ritz Hotel, Columbus ave., South End, and arrested five waiters for violations of the liquor laws. They were found guilty in lower court and appealed.

John F. Sullivan, proprietor of the hotel, was arrested on a charge of maintaining a nuisance and was found not guilty in lower court, no evidence being presented at that time to show him to be the proprietor. In consequence, defense counsel offered no evidence and he was discharged.

On appeal, the five Ritz waiters were tried in Superior Court and found not guilty.

FIVE INDICTED

In the meantime, Dist. Atty. William J. Foley had begun an investigation of suspicious circumstances surrounding the arrest of the waiters and evidence subsequently was presented to a Suffolk County grand jury.

Five men were indicted on charges of conspiracy to steal from the Ritz proprietor, conspiracy to obstruct justice in two counts and attempt to bribe a police officer, namely Oliver B. Garrett.

The indicted men were Cockinos, the Watch and Ward agent, Albert K. Sidlinger, a former professional bondsman; John F. Mullen, known as "the boy broker"; Ralph Gross of Lowell, and a Boston lawyer, living in Dorchester, who died before the case went to trial.

Mullen, who was serving a prison term for larceny when the trial began, pleaded guilty to all counts. Gross was found not guilty by the jury. Cockinos and Sidlinger were found guilty of conspiracy to steal and conspiracy to obstruct justice, in one count, the other being not pressed.

Judge Quinn, who sat on the case, directed a verdict of not guilty on the charge of attempted bribery of Garrett.

Cockinos and Sidlinger were sentenced in two years each and fined $500 for conspiracy to steal. The other charge of which they were found guilty was filed.

Between the records of court disposition, however, are woven charges and counter charges of graft and extortion involving not only the convicted men but Garrett and other policemen.

At the trial of the four defendants on conspiracy charges, the most sensational testimony was that offered by one of the defendants, Sidlinger. Sidlinger said that in April, 1928 a month after Garrett's raid on the Ritz he met Sullivan, the proprietor, and the indicted attorney (referred to as "Mr. H" following his death) in the Court st. office of the latter.

There the Ritz Hotel proprietor said to him, Sidlinger testified:

"I have paid Garrett almost $30,000 and I am being bled to death. I can't stand it any more. I am an old man and every cent I have saved is invested in the hotel."

Sidlinger also said that Sullivan told him of Garrett's property holdings in Newton at that time.

Sidlinger made startling charges that he was the victim of a frameup by Garrett and other police raiders.

Some months after he was indicted, Sidlinger said, Sullivan called to see him at his home. He refused to interview him, but on advice of his counsel did so the next day.

"Sullivan said to me," said Sidlinger, "A lot of your friends are my friends and they tell me you are a pretty good fellow. They blame me at the United States Court for —— (the lawyer's) death and they blame me for all your sickness and trouble, too.

"I want to try to make things right. I want you to go to your friends, who are my friends, and fix things right. I don't want to go to them in person."

"I said to Sullivan," Sidlinger continued, "'If you will go to the district attorney's office and clear my name I will go to these friends who are my friends and I will tell them anything that will help you.' I said to him, 'Why did you bring me into this thing?'

"He said, 'I was told to do it by the police!'

"I said, 'What police?'

"He said, 'Sergt. Timmons and Special Officer Tierney.'"

Governor Allen today signed a bill authorizing Concord to borrow $150,000 for the purpose of remodeling its Town House for district court purposes.

U. S. Immunity Assured Garrett Witnesses

THE new mandate for the Garrett inquiry now in the Legislature gives the attorney-general power to grant immunity to witnesses and there seemed for a time some question as to what effect such granting of immunity might have upon possible prosecution of witnesses by the Federal authorities.

Of course, Atty.-Gen. Warner cannot promise witnesses they will not be prosecuted under Federal law for he has no jurisdiction over Federal law. But—

His office unofficially states it is practically certain Federal authorities will take cognizance of ethics involved and not prosecute witnesses granted State immunity; and—

The same statement is unofficially made at the office of U. S. Atty. Frederick H. Tarr.

MELLIE'S HOME AND FIDDLE ARE BURNED

Veteran Violinist Has a Close Call When Flames Sweep His Maine Residence

Norway, Me., March 21—

Norway, Me., March 21—Flames crackled atop Crockett's Ridge early today and when they had died away the famous home of "Gram" and Mellie Dunham lay in ruins, with most of the old fiddler's relics lost.

The quick ears of "Gram" saved the noted fiddler from a death in the fire. She was awakened by the crackling of flames and discovered a blaze adjoining their bedroom was ablaze.

Rousing Mellie, she aided him in collecting the cherished letters sent him by Henry Ford, a gold pin presented by former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, a gold key to the city presented by ex-Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols of Boston and a few other treasures.

For the most part, however, his collection of relics, gifts and mementoes fed the flames.

FAMOUS FIDDLE GONE.

They included the famous old monster fiddle carved from a huge plank of pumpkin pine, the gift of Admiral Peary in appreciation of the snowshoes made by Mellie for the Peary North Pole discovery trip, the thousands of newspaper clippings the aged couple have saved throughout the years and most of the relics collected on their triumphal tour through 20 cities after Mellie had been a guest of Henry Ford at Detroit.

Three grandchildren were sleeping also in the century-old farmhouse when the fire started. They fled into the snow as "Gram" led her husband, who has been ill with a severe cold since returning from Florida, to the outside.

LOSS IS STAGGERING.

The Dunham home site is six miles from the village of Norway and the flames had attained considerable headway when Fire Chief Giles Frost and his crew had pushed the pumper through the snow.

The only water source was the well and this soon was pumped dry. By careful use of the water, however, the firemen succeeded in saving the barn and other buildings.

Mellie, who will be 77 years old in July, estimated the loss of his fiddles and relics at about $5000 in cash, but he said there was no estimating their worth in a sentimental way.

CITY WORKERS JOIN IN REVOLT OF MUJIKS

Russian Food Crisis Causes Strikes; Reports Persist Stalin Has Quit

London, March 21—Reports from Riga continued to say that Joseph Stalin, Soviet dictator, had resigned as chief of the Communist party in Russia and that guards had been established around public buildings in Moscow. The Kremlin, it was reported, resembled an armed camp.

Warsaw, March 21—The Soviet Government is faced with a series of armed uprisings among peasants in the provinces and strikes among city factory workers, according to accounts of travelers returning from Moscow to Poland.

The peasant rebellions, the travelers declare, are due to the high state of feeling against the Government's program of collectivising their farm lands.

The strikes are an indirect result of the rebellions, the factory workers suffering from a lack of food because of the disordered conditions in the agricultural areas.

Red army forces are said to have been forced to cope with at least six risings in the past few weeks. Peasants in the Kuban area are reported in a constant state of guerilla warfare with the Cossacks.

In the industrial cities, conditions are reported severe as a result of the uprisings. Factory workers are being fed on black bread and thin vegetable soup and are refusing to go to work unless more wholesome food is provided.

The O. G. P. U. (secret police) are said to be arresting leaders among the recalcitrant workers and forcing the great body to return to the factories.

wonders how Wall Street does it.

Money is getting cheaper all over the world. The Bank of England dropped its rate from 4½ to 3½ per cent yesterday, reduced last March from 4½ to 4 per cent.

Cheap money is pleasant for borrowers, but not a good sign.

It means little borrowing, therefore little building, industrial and otherwise.

Uncle Sam is very prosperous, which is easy, since his Congress simply reaches out and takes all it needs from people that have it.

On Monday the citizens delivered as income tax, $214,534,548, a gain of $53,000,000 over the same third day collection last year. For the fiscal year, up to last Tuesday, the income tax collections had increased $216,000,000.

U. S. DRAFT DODGER GROVER BERGDOLL MARRIED TO GERMAN GIRL

2 CHILDREN CLOSELY GUARDED

Former Philadelphian Whose $1,500,000 Estate Was Seized Fears Kidnapers

Weinsberg, Germany, March 21 (AP)—If the villagers of this little place are right in their surmises, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft dodger, is married and the father of two children.

Fugitive from America and once hounded by kidnapers from his own country, Bergdoll came to Weinsberg about four years ago in search of a cure for shattered nerves.

There is no record here to indicate it, but the villagers believe that shortly after arrival Bergdoll in Switzerland married Bertha, youngest daughter of Emanuel Frank, head gardener at the sanatorium here.

Two children considered as bearing the name of Bergdoll live in virtual seclusion with Bertha's parents.

CLOSELY GUARDED.

The children are so guarded that villagers do not know whether they are boys or girls. Bergdoll and his supposed wife travel constantly. Occasionally they visit the Frank home.

The old gardener never mentions the children when he comes to the village main street to shop. His tall, erect bearing marks him as a pre-war German officer of the reserve. He wears an old hunting jacket, high leather boots, riding breeches, old soft hat and coarse walking stick.

His wife never leaves the house and exercises eternal vigilance over the children. The only outsider the couple receive, it is said, is Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, Grover's mother who has been here several times and when, the villagers hear, supports her son and family.

FEARS KIDNAPERS.

Bergdoll apparently has convinced village authorities that there is danger of kidnapers seizing him or his children, for the constable, the village burgomaster and his assistants decline to divulge information concerning his whereabouts. Six years or so ago an attempt was reported to have been made to kidnap Bergdoll and return him to America.

The former Philadelphian, whose property valued at $1,500,000 was confiscated by the American government in 1927, is shunned by German relatives because of notoriety growing out of charges in 1920 that he abducted a Heirelberg girl. Following his acquittal Bergdoll blamed American persecution for that conflict with the law.

Villagers also hear that Bertha Frank's oldest sister, formerly a postal clerk at Weinsberg, recently went to Philadelphia to act as companion to Mrs. Emma Bergdoll.

250 VICTIMS OF POISON 'JAKE'

Louisville, Ky., March 21 (AP)—As the number of cases of partial paralysis, believed by Kentucky health officers to be caused by drinking adulterated Jamaica ginger, mounted today to more than 250, hopes for a scientific diagnosis of the puzzling malady centered here.

Several victims are to be brought to Louisville City Hospital and isolated for medical and neurological investigation. Meanwhile samples of the "jake," as the widely distributed mixture is called, are being analyzed.

Dr. L. L. Terrell of Corbin, where there are more than 100 cases, said he had had one brand of ginger analyzed and was told it contained industrial instead of pure grain alcohol. Supplies of ginger have been traced to New York, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Tennessee.

GIRL IS BEATEN AND ROBBED

Leominster, March 21—Miss Irene Goguen, 19, of Seventh st., cashier at the Metropolitan Theater, was slugged and robbed of her pocketbook containing less than $5. Frank Romano, 17, of South Barre, arrested a short time later, confessed, according to the police, adding that he had hoped to obtain the theater receipts.

As Miss Goguen, a sister of City Councilor J. Henry Goguen, was returning home a man demanded her pocketbook.

She screamed and the youth struck her over the head with a wrench and fled with her pocketbook.

Edmund Legere heard Miss Goguen's screams and assisted her to his home and notified police.

Six stitches were taken in Miss Goguen's head. The money taken from her was found on Romano's person and police found the pocketbook where he said he had flung it.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

April Fool Candy Banned by U. S. as Dangerous

Washington, March 21—An attempt by foreign manufacturers to flood the country with "sweet meats" of chocolate-covered sawdust and paper and "bon bon" filled with mustard, salt and a strong acetic acid for use on April Fool's day has been stopped by the government, the department of agriculture announced.

A big shipment received at New York, was turned back to its shippers by W. R. M. Whiton, chief of the eastern district of the food, drug and insecticide administration of the department, as dangerous to health and in violation of the federal food and drug act.

DRINKERS LEAD IN BROWN POLL

Providence, March 21—With Fielding H. "Hurry Up" Yost, famous football coach, reported as saying that drinking in colleges is decreasing, a poll taken among undergraduates by the Brown Daily Herald showed that 60 per cent of the students indulge in intoxicants.

The poll also showed that 61 per cent are in favor of modification of the prohibition law, 19 per cent favor total repeal, and 18 per cent are in favor of strict enforcement.

Thirty per cent of those who said they drink admitted that they sometimes get drunk, and of the 40 per cent who do not drink at all 96 per cent refrain because of personal taste.

Commenting on the survey the Brown Daily Herald says that "prohibition has no real effect in its attempt to curb drinking.

MARCHAND HAD 'AFFAIR' WITH HIS MODEL

Artist-Husband of Slain Wife Denies, However, That He Loved Indian Woman

(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service.)

Buffalo, N. Y., March 21 (INS)—"I had an affair with Lila Jimerson, I'll admit that, but love her? No—there never was any real love between us."

Henri Marchand, artist and sculptor, sat in cell No. 2 in the Erie county jail here today and made these statements to this correspondent in an exclusive interview.

He was speaking of his paramour, Miss Jimerson, the Indian maid on trial for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, who was hammered to death in her home less than three weeks ago.

Lila is accused of having influenced Nancy Bowen, an aged Seneca Indian woman, to commit the crime. Lila and Nancy had communed with the "spirit" together through the agency of an ouija board. "Ma" Bowen is in custody and will be tried later for first degree murder.

FEELS HIS "DISGRACE."

While the distinguished artist, Marchand, bemoaned his plight in jail here, where he is being held as a material witness, Lila sat in a white man's courtroom across the street listening to attorneys select the jury. Eight jurors had been accepted when trial was resumed today.

"I feel the disgrace keenly," said Marchand. "It is an awful thing to pay for one's achievements. I had to go out to the reservation and live with those Indians—be one of them—in order to make a success of my career, and this has been the result."

Lila was his model. She is 36 years old. The artist's slain wife was 50.

WROTE LETTERS TO MODEL.

"It was my wife, not Lila, whom I loved," Marchand continued. "For 32 years, my wife and I lived together. I have been interested to some extent with other women, I will admit, but always I went back to my little wife. She was not only my wife—she was my pal.

"I cannot conceive how anyone could believe the suspicion that I could be in any way connected with her death. Why, she was so dear to me it is unbelievable that I could want the slightest harm to befall her.

"I am a greatly wronged man. Certainly I had nothing whatever to do with my wife's death."

Asked if it were not a fact that he was the author of several "My Dear Lila" letters, Marchand frankly admitted he was.

SAVE 8 FROM DEATH AT SEA

climax of five days of danger beginning with the sinking of their ship 180 miles southeast of the Boston lightship.

The rescued men are:

Joseph N. Pittipas of Boston, Mate Albert Powers of East Boston, Engineer Frank Toomey of East Boston, Cook Joseph King of Gloucester, Douglas and Alan Linehan of Dorchester, Terrance White of East Boston and Roger Amiro of East Boston.

Terrance White was the only man injured. He suffered an injury to his right thumb caught in a attempting to hoist sail on the sinking ship.

The leak which caused the loss of the dragger with its cargo of 15,000 haddock from the Georges, was discovered Tuesday about 2:30 a. m. by the engineer.

A seam in the stern in the "stuffing box," opened wide. The deck pump and the emergency pump were called into action, but after several hours the men were forced to abandon the ship.

At 5:30 o'clock Tuesday evening the men boarded their dories, three to a boat. One of the dories was broken in the haste of abandoning ship and leaked badly while adrift.

Wednesday morning the J. M. Marshall, a Portuguese trawler, was sighted and picked up the men. Four hours later she put them on board the Alden Mills of Boston. Capt. Francis Cole of Boston at noon that same day transferred his charges to the cutter Acushnet, which brought the crew here.

Shortly after landing the rescued Ethel and Marion crew the Acushnet set out to the assistance of the steam trawler Breaker of the Bay State fleet, which had sent out an S O S from 120 miles east-southeast of Cape Cod.

The Breaker reported herself helpless from boiler trouble, but a later message said the trawler Comber of the same company had reached her and no other assistance was necessary.

At about the same time the 125-foot patrol boat Active sighted the fishing schooner Cape Ann II in distress off Gloucester.

The schooner reported she was out of fuel, with a dying man on board, and was towed into her home port of Gloucester by the patrol boat.

Vienna, March 21 (INS)—The Austrian National Bank today lowered its rediscount rate from 6½ to 6 per cent.

CURTIS IN TILT AS OIL TARIFF LOSES AGAIN

Vice-President and Ashurst in Clash; Senate Reverses Self on Plate Glass

Washington, March 21 (AP)—For the fifth time the Senate today refused to place a tariff on oil and gasoline.

The vote was 38 to 37.

Senator Watson, Indiana, Republican leader, announced immediately that the Senate should stay in session tomorrow until it passed the tariff measure.

The Senate had earlier today reversed itself again and voted a reduction in existing plate glass tariffs.

The oil tariff vote was on a proposal by Senator Pine, Republican, Oklahoma, to levy a duty of 46 cents a barrel on crude oil and 20 per cent ad valorem on petroleum by-products, all now on the free list.

The same amendment was defeated, 32 to 28, Wednesday night and again last night without a record vote.

Amendments by Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, for rates of $1 and 50 per cent, respectively, on oil and by-products, were defeated by more decisive votes previously.

The fifth attempt for the oil duty brought an attack from Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, on its sponsors. The Arizonan in return was admonished by Vice President Curtis for using severe language.

Before the roll-call Ashurst protested against the sudden revival of the attempt for the oil tariff by Senator Pine.

"When I was at the bar," said Ashurst, "tactics such as have been employed here on oil would have been severly denounced. I do not question the good faith of the tariff proponents, but it is extremely bad taste and bad manners to call up an amendment of that kind after senators have gone home to a sick bed, believing the oil matter settled."

After the roll was taken, Ashurst inquired if another attempt could be made for the oil duty and added "most senators hold themselves at arm's length as if we were in a house fo thieves."

Vice-President Curtis ruled that the oil amendment could be brought up again if modified. He then admonished the fiery Arizonan for "the language he has used.'

"I thank the chair," responded Ashurst with a bow. "The Senate will be on guard."

Balk Chinese Raid on Standard Oil Boat

Shanghai, March 21 (AP)—Lawless soldiery between Hankow and Ichang today attacked the boat of a Standard Oil Company of New York steamer which was nearing Itu, midway between the two towns.

Due to the combined efforts of the United States naval guard aboard the steamer and the guard aboard another American ship which was nearby, the marauders were repulsed.

Prof. Fisher's Liquor Views Assailed by Yale News

New Haven, Ct., March 21 (INS)—The Yale Daily News today charges that Prof. Irving Fisher of the Yale faculty "reported unsubstantiated generalizations" when in a statement to the News yesterday he declared the older generations of Yale men drank more than the present undergraduates.

"As a matter of fact an interest we sounded out alumni who graduated in or about 1910," says the News. "We know that men in 1906-1910, 59 per cent of the graduating classes drank, as against 71 per cent now.

Prof. Irving Fisher

"In a practical issue as large as prohibition, the facts alone, and the logical deductions from these facts, should form the basis of discussions."

San Francisco, March 26—Capt. Robert Dollar, 86, hale and hearty, says: "It's fine to be able at 86 to be always on the job."

Capt. Dollar, who rose from a dish washer in a lumber camp to the head of a mighty fleet of freighters and passenger ships comprising the Dollar Lines, celebrated his birthday, but did not take the day off. At work in his office, he said:

BIG 3 PACT MAY FORCE FRANCE, ITALY ACCORD

U. S., Britain, Japan Certain to Sign Regardless of the Other Two Powers' Fight

London, March 21 (AP)—American, British and Japanese naval delegations were understood today to be preparing for quick, definite action next week in the production of a limitation and reduction pact.

In American circles it was said the moment the Japanese government indicates acceptance of the proposals now being reconsidered in Tokyo for an agreement among the United States, Great Britain and Japan, France and Italy will be called upon to put their cards on the table in an effort to settle their parity disagreement.

If France and Italy still cannot see any purpose in further negotiating their difference, then the other three powers will quickly frame an agreement along the lines of the Washington treaty vitiated to sign such parts as they wish.

In other words, it was said, there will be a three-power pact with France and Italy possibly signing some clauses which do not affect their parity disagreement.

Officials of the French delegation stated that although both Francois Pietri and Jacques Dubreuil of the French delegation are going to Paris tonight, leaving only Ambassador De Fleuriau, this does not mean withdrawal of the delegation from the conference.

The French representatives will see Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy before leaving London.

Tardieu Says Next Move Is Up to Parley, Not France

Paris, March 21 (AP)—Asked today whether and when he would go to London, Premier Tardieu replied that he planned to go to London when something definite at the conference should require his presence.

The attitude of the French government towards the conference remains unchanged, it was said in official circles regarding the rumor that Premier Tardieu was not going back to London.

It was added, however, that it does not depend on France alone to find a solution of the present difficulties of the conference. Prime Minister Briand and his colleagues will co-operate in any effort to accomplish something, it was said, but it must be co-operation and not one-sided sacrifices.

The French figures have been before the conference for weeks and have been put through detailed study, it was remarked, and there was no reason to see why everybody else interested did not submit their figures to the same test.

Japan Still Undecided About 3-Power Treaty

Tokyo, March 21 (AP)—It was authoritatively learned today that Japan may require another full week of deliberation before reaching a decision on the formula advanced at the London conference to fix the strength of the British, Japanese and American navies.

Consultations are progressing slowly. So many divergencies must be reconciled that it will be impossible for the cabinet to reach a decision at tomorrow's session. Therefore instructions will not be cabled to Wakatsuki, head of the Japanese delegation, until the cabinet meeting Sunday, and may be delayed until March 29.

LEAGUE COURT BACK DOOR TO MEMBERSHIP

Universal Service

Chicago, March 21—Freedom is the foundation of America, a foundation this country has refused to weaken by joining the League of Nations or its World Court.

That was the assertion of Ruth Hanna McCormick in the third of a series of patriotic broadcasts sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Her talk, on the subject "America For Americans," was broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co. on its coast-to-coast network.

Mrs. McCormick said:

"Faithfully we have followed the counsel of Washington that 'the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake.' Washington said, 'foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of Republican government.'

"Ten years ago our respect for Washington's advice was put to a crucial test. We were asked to sign a treaty of peace with Germany which Washington would have spurned.

"We were besought to join the League of Nations and enter upon a dangerous participation in foreign affairs.

"We repudiated both the treaty and the covenant of the league. Our foreign policy, built upon the wisdom of Washington, was not thus to be marred by an act of emotional folly.

"In three national elections, the American people have overwhelmingly shown their opposition to joining the League of Nations.

An effort was begun seven years ago to get us to adhere to the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations. It is not a world court to which we are asked to adhere because its members are limited to those nations which are members of the league.

"I oppose the court now for the same reason that I was against it seven years ago. Nothing has been done to change the fact that the league court is a back door entrance into the league itself.

"The league created the court and can terminate it. Statutes of the court are not changed without the official approval of the League of Nations."

1600 VALUABLE STILLS FOUND IN MONTH

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Federal prohibition agents during January captured a total of 1600 stills ranging in size from tea kettle and copper pipe affair, to plants capable of turning out 2000 gallons of alcohol a day.

Commissioner of Prohibition Doran in announcing this today said of the total 730 plants were producing alcohol from corn sugar.

These plants, located principally in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and in New England, he added, cost from $10,000 to $50,000 apiece and produced from 1000 to 2000 gallons of pure alcohol a day, using as much as two carloads of corn sugar in a 24-hour run.

Only 90 of the plants seized were employed to remove denaturants from industrial alcohol.

Raids were continued in full force through February and into March, the Commissioner said, but results for these periods had not yet been totalled.

TRAGEDY ENDED ROMANCE FOR BALFOUR

London, March 21 (AP)—The tragic death of his fiancee, the only woman he ever loved, just before the presentation of the engagement ring, is said by the Daily Mail to have motivated Lord Balfour's lifelong bachelorhood, which ended Wednesday with his death at the age of 81.

The Mail says that when Balfour was about 27 he fell in love with the Hon. Miss Lyttelton, sister of the late Viscount Cobham. He bought a ring to seal the engagement but she died suddenly while he was on his way to present it.

In after years the earl never referred to his engagement and when asked why he did not marry always lightly turned away the question. The Mail said that once, however, Balfour told a friend he had not married because in early life he purposed to have a career of his own.

"But would marriage have made a great difference?" he was asked.

Balfour replied: "It would have made a very great difference. Think of the sweet clutter of things about the house."

Balfour will be buried tomorrow beside the graves of his mother and brother at Whittinghame, Scotland.

WARREN TRUST SUIT WITNESS IN N. ORLEANS

New Orleans, March 21 (AP)—Carl Marshall, self-termed "political refugee" from Mississippi, was in New Orleans today, after putting state boundaries between him and the disciplinary agents of the Mississippi House of Representatives, which sought to imprison him for refusal to answer questions propounded by an investigating committee.

The committee investigating the alleged settlement of a threatened $10,000,000 anti-trust suit against Warren Brothers, Boston highway material firm, by payment of $80,000, asked Marshall whether any Mississippi state officials had shared in the money. He was ordered jailed when he refused to answer, and immediately pardoned by Governor Bilbo. He disappeared when the House decided to ignore the pardon.

Marshall said he would remain outside Mississippi until he was advised that Governor Bilbo would yield to the House of Representatives in the matter of his pardon, or that the House would yield to the governor. He said he left to prevent a possible "armed clash" between state militia and sergeants-at-arms of the House.

Pocket Picking De Luxe

"Impersonal robbing," says Irving Fisher, eminent economist, "or transfer of values from creditors to debtors through inflation, or the reverse, through deflation, is enormous."

Professor Willford I. King, of the National Bureau of Economics Research, estimated that in the U. S. A. the pockets of one set of people have been picked for the advantage of another set to the tune of sixty billions of dollars within a period of only six years (1914-1920). "All of this robbery," says Fisher, "was legal, though contrary to the principles of essential right as laid down by the Constitution of the United States; it was properly taken without due process of law."

The Boston Evening American has opened its columns to Professor Irving Fisher, who will, every Monday throughout 1930, give his views on matters pertaining to finance and economics. His articles, exclusive to the Boston Evening American, will appear in the financial section. With them will appear statistical information of vital interest concerning the Stock Market, fluctuations in the wholesale price level, the purchasing power of the dollar and other timely and relevant matter.

Irving Fisher is the inventor of the modern use in business of Index Numbers, which are the simple outcome of involved computations in higher mathematics and are far-reaching in their application. Used by the Federal Reserve System in controlling the movements of money and credit, they are useful also to the family man and housewife in arranging expenditures and in making their long-distance provision for the future.

No Boston Evening American reader who desires to be well informed should miss this modern service which presents and solves financial and economic problems in a popular way.

Letters From Readers

Something to Think About

Editor Boston American:

There is one phase of the unemployment situation in Massachusetts which calls for comment. It is the presence of the pin-money woman worker in many vocations, the woman who is not forced to work in order to live, but wants by her work to pay for some incidental expenses, which mean a larger enjoyment of some of the recreations of life.

She is in some respects a parasite upon labor. It is no wonder that this condition has drawn fire from Miss Frances Perkins, State commissioner for labor in New York, who is quite vigorous in her attack upon this type of worker. There are young women in Boston today, who need work to keep body and soul together; capable, industrious women, who absolutely depend upon work to keep themselves and often dependent mothers.

There should be preference given to these women. I do not know how this may be brought about. If I have opened a sore, I hope your readers can help to heal it.

East Boston. HAZEL R. TROMMER.

Helpful Character of Elias McQuaid

Editor Boston American:

May I add my mite to your splendid tribute paid to the memory of Elias McQuaid. I have known him for years and no man could have a better friend than he proved to be upon so many occasions. He would go out of his way to help anyone over a difficulty and he could give wholesome advice.

He had a large heart. He never dealt in emphasis upon the small matters, but magnified the large ones. Consequently, he could show his generous feelings upon all occasions, found good where others might be tempted to frown and lifted the courage in many a person to a new vision of an opportunity.

When three unemployed men were injured at the building being erected on Franklin and Devonshire sts., during the past winter, he took in what that event meant and in his writing, showed his kind, sympathetic spirit. Such men have not lived in vain.

"Vixit, quis bene vixit." "He has lived, because he lived well." ADMIRER.

Sees Privacy Move in Garrett Hearing

Editor Boston American:

Why is the Garrett hearing, which is supposed to be public, persistently held in one of the smallest rooms of the State House, Room 370? Is not the public interested? While it is ostensibly a public hearing, the small room in which it is held indicates a desire to keep it near as possible a private hearing.

This hearing is altogether too exclusive. This kind of a hearing has the odor of a closed corporation affair. It's our business and not yours.

This is a case where the political servants are dictating to the sovereign citizens. How long, O Commonwealth of Massachusetts, are we to stand for such methods? How long will you abuse our patience?

HENRY L. WASHBURN. Melrose.

Wise Mother

Here are Mary and Eileen, husky young daughters of Mrs. J. McDonough, 14 Shep Ave., Boston. Their mother's experience shows what can be done to keep children robust. She says: "Since I found out how good California Fig Syrup is, I have kept some in the house. It always helps my children. I give it for upsets or colds."

When your child's breath is bad; tongue is coated; or he is headachy, bilious, feverish, without appetite or energy, give him a little California Fig Syrup. See how its gentle cleansing helps a child. Appetite, digestion and assimilation improve. Stomach and bowels are toned and strengthened.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. Seven million bottles used a year proves its merit!

Sees Prospects of Work for Everybody

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Miss Frances Perkins, industrial commissioner of New York, today testified before a Senate committee that appeals for charity had increased 200 per cent in six months.

"Unemployment can be made to disappear from American industry," Miss Perkins said. "We have solved other problems. I believe we can reduce unemployment in our industrial structure to a degree at which it would be negligible."

Traffic Officer Held in Rum Case

Hartford, March 21 (AP)—Raymond Regan, a traffic officer, and Benjamin Bromberg, an alleged bootlegger, were arrested today upon superior court warrants which came out of the sitting of a special grand jury for several weeks to inquire into liquor conditions in the city.

The Regan warrant charged that the policeman swore before the grand jury that he had never visited a speakeasy on Main st., and had never obtained liquor there. The warrant says that Policeman Regan did secure and drink liquor at that place.

FIND STACK OF 101 MUMMIES

Cairo, Egypt, March 21 (AP)—Excavators under the direction of the University of Pennsylvania are making discoveries of historic value, including 101 mummies, amid the tombs of ancient Egyptians at Meydum.

Several unsuspected chambers have been unearthed by the party. The first tomb of note to be unearthed was that of a foreigner, who, some of the pottery indicated, had come from Cyprus and settled at Meydum in the reign of Thothmes the Third, about 1500 B. C. His name was K. A. Gamesh. His coffin was beautifully decorated and inscribed with a record of his qualities.

In another large coffin several mummies were found, as well as 25 scarabs, amulets and a set of delicate toilet articles.

To the east of the Mastaba was discovered a cemetery of contemporary date. A number of bodies were exposed, but the most prolific yield was obtained from a spot some distance to the southeast of the pyramid.

Here the explorers came upon 12 rock cut chambers, most of which were stacked up to the ceiling with layers of coffins in rows. In addition to 28 single burials, without coffins, this "complex" contained 101 mummies in coffins of which 20 were recovered in a fair state of preservation. One chamber contained a very black coffin of the 12th dynasty (B. C. 2000).

King Albert Flies Back From Bagdad

London, March 21 (INS)—King Albert of Belgium arrived back at Cairo this afternoon, completing a flight from Bagdad, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch.

Members of the Belgian Cabinet had cabled their protests to the king because of his journeys, claiming that air travel is subject to hazards to which the king should not be subjected, but His Majesty ignored the protests.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a Situations Apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Dry Enforcement Program Approved

Washington, March 21 (AP)—With modifications, the entire program of the law enforcement commission to strengthen dry law enforcement, has been laid before the full House Judiciary Committee by a sub-committee for action next Thursday.

The sub-committee today reported favorably to the full committee the Wickersham bills to strengthen the padlock law and to permit state officers to hale liquor law violators into federal courts. The Stobbs bill to amend the Jones law and the Christopherson bill to broaden the powers of the United States commissioners, previously given favorable reports, were reported.

GOELET LOSES $859 VERDICT

Newport, R. I., March 21 (AP)—It took a jury only an hour today to find in favor of Alexander McLellan, nursery man, in his suit for $60 against Robert W. Goelet, wealthy member of New York and Newport society.

McLellan testified Goelet refused to pay for 28 trees. Goelet contended he found they were not what he ordered. The jury directed Goelet to pay the nurseryman interest at 6 per cent or $859 in all.

Need $30,000,000 for National Monuments

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Expenditure of $30,000,000 would be necessary to create national monuments commemorating major battles and erect suitable markers for minor engagements, in the opinion of Lieut.-Col H. L. Landers, who reported to the House military committee today on a survey of battlefields through the nation.

Noisemakers May Win Orinoco Natives

New York, March 21 (AP)—Five explorers bound for the Orinoco are taking $100 worth of harmonicas, tin horns, rattles and the like, hoping to win the friendship of natives who have hampered previous expeditions.

WOMEN TOLD U. S. IMMIGRATION LAWS BEST

By NANCY BREWSTER

"Our country's position of power and prestige in the world today is due to the fact that something good has come to the United States from every country in the world," Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, director of the Division of Immigration and Americanization in the State, told members and guests of the Women's City Club, at a luncheon-meeting in her honor.

"Our immigration laws work well on the whole," she declared. "Many cases of injustice laid at our doors are really the fault of European regulations."

Mrs. Thayer maintained that the quota laws had saved this country "from the terrible menace of unrestricted immigration of war-ridden, down-trodden foreign populations," and that the U. S. is getting the people we want, and protecting future generations.

She concluded by pointing out that women everywhere can help by extending the friendly hand to foreign-born women, whether in political clubs or elsewhere.

Another guest was Miss Alice W. O'Connor, executive secretary of the same division in the department of education, who explained that the status of an American woman marrying an alien depends on the intelligent administration of the laws we now have and does not rest wholly with The Hague conference or with Congress.

The United States is one of only five nations in which a woman's nationality is not affected by her marriage, Miss O'Connor stated. She also discussed unusual cases of foreigners having entered the United States on a special status, who cannot become citizens without first returning to the European country from which they may be debarred.

Miss Frances C. Curtis presided

DORCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB

The art committee, Mrs. Willard W. Hibbard, chairman, has charge of the meeting next Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the clubhouse, when Mrs. Helen S. Richardson will present an illustrated lecture on famous paintings. Mrs. Frederick J. Moffatt is tea hostess.

BARNSTABLE WOMAN'S CLUB

The annual guest night of the club takes place next Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Village Hall. Invitations have been sent to all the clubs in the first district. There will be a musical program, with duet harp selections, vocal solos and a piano recital.

BROOKLINE WOMAN'S CLUB

A successful bridge and tea was held at the Copley-Plaza, specially featured by the miniature candy clubhouse, which added hundreds of dollars to the clubhouse funds. A report of the party will be given at the next regular meeting of the club Monday, March 24, at 2:30 p. m. in Whitney Hall. Mrs. Walter T. Spencer, president, will preside. Mrs. Fred B. Cross is guest of honor.

The program is in charge of the community service committee, which will present as the afternoon speaker John C. Cosseboom, of the New England Council. He will discuss "New England Housecleaning."

Doesn't hurt one bit. Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Old Boston in Pictures—No. 212

Massachusetts Tercentenary, 1930

HERE'S how the corner of Boylston and Washington sts. looked up to 1855. This building, taken down then, was built in 1809. Boylston market, on the first floor, was an institution, and the hall upstairs was the center of much of the social life of Boston. A crack company of the 1st Infantry used the hall as an armory. Note the news stand. Former Rep. James T. Kenney kept it. He is now president of the Musicians' Union. This site is now occupied by a building housing the Continental Clothing Co., the Georgian Cafe and many business offices.

You'll know the New Spring Fashions by their Lapels

"Change the lapel, and you've changed the style"! A wise old saying—and true—that suddenly pops into the fashion headlines with renewed vigor. For after three seasons of more or less "sameness," it's a joy to greet these three new lapels—and the three new sack coats they introduce.

We men don't often get the chance to change our lines with such decided advantage to our appearance. That's why we're taking the new lines of our lapels so seriously this Spring. They completely change the "set" of the shoulders by making them appear broader. And they produce a jaunty, deep-chested effect that's flattering to us all; and that will quickly erase any lingering memories of drab Winter.

At Bond's, these newcomers are faultlessly reproduced from the original models brought from London (we'll cross more than an ocean, if necessary, to get complete "style assurance").

And at Bond's you'll see these newcomers developed in the proudest fabrics of our American looms — woolens that have withstood the most punishing tests for wear, before we accept them for you to wear. Rich Dunrobins, sparkling Orkney Tweeds, the famous Camerons, McLaren Cords — thoroughbreds that are generally associated only with expensive clothes. Tailored by Bond — with two trousers — $25, $35, $45.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY ACTIVITIES

THE ROMANTIC SET, THE debutantes and post-debutantes, are anticipating a whirl of gayety this evening at the costume ball of the Hasty Pudding Club at the club house in Cambridge. Many delightful dinners will precede it, among them that being given by Elbridge T. Gerry, 2d., at the Algonquin Club for 14 guests, several of whom will be from out of town.

Junior League Glee Club Cheers Patients

THE JUNIOR LEAGUE GLEE CLUB carried spring sunshine and cheer into the hearts of the patients of the Eye and Ear Infirmary yesterday with their merry songs and happy faces. It was inspiring to all who heard them sing the gay French carols, the tuneful folk songs and the rollicking madrigals. Mrs. Malcolm Bradlee accompanied several of the songs on the piano. Misses Rosamond Holton, Barbara Frost, Carolyn Wildrick, Rosamond Cutler, Harriet Smith and Mrs. William Reed, Jr.; Mrs. Kimball Fleming, Mrs. Anthony Brackett, Mrs. William F. King were among the many girls who gave their services. They were directed in a spirited manner by L. P. Beveridge.

AS YOU PROBABLY KNOW, the first Junior League was established in 1901 in New York City and has always been the outstanding social organization in New York. Among the first to follow their example were Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cleveland, Montreal, San Francisco, Chicago and Portland, Oregon. The purpose of the League is to foster interest among their members in the social, economic, educational, cultural and civic conditions of their own communities and to make efficient their volunteer service, and they do it well in Boston. The annual conference of the Junior Leagues is to be held in New York from April 29 to May 3 and the Boston League will be represented officially by Mrs. Lyon Weyburn, Mrs. Edward Hoar Warren, Mrs. John T. J. Clunie and Miss Barbara Reynolds. Of the 160 cities applying for admission to the Junior League Association, only four new leagues were admitted, namely, Raleigh, N. C.; Rockford, Ill.; Fort Worth, Texas, and Mexico City, Mexico.

MILTON society is occupied with presenting two plays at the exclusive Milton Club this evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening. Many prominent persons are sponsoring and taking part in these productions. Mrs. Roger L. Scaife and Miss Elsie De Normandie are acting as accompanists for "Trial By Jury," an operetta in which Miss Rose Bryant sings the leading role. Others in the cast are Charles F. Morse, Lincoln Bryant, Alanson H. Sturgis, Arthur B. Parry and C. Fisher Luther, Misses Alice Dalton, Laura Robbins, Elizabeth Scaife, Faith Ward, Martha Wigglesworth, Susan Wigglesworth. The cast for "Beauty and the Beast" includes Mrs. Paul R. Withington, Miss Barbara Burnet, George Russell, William B. Cowin, Asaph Churchill, D. Reed Stuart, Jr., W. R. Driver and F. Revor Hogg. Mrs. George S. Mumford, Jr., has charge of the program.

Try This Japanese Foot Remedy

Costs Little and Makes the Feet Feel Fine

Foot sufferers gather round; get right up close and listen. Here's good news for you.

The real "Corn Killer" is here at last. Ice-Mint, the New Discovery made from a Japanese product, is said to quickly and quickly end all foot misery.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, also toughened callouses, just apply it up and lift off easy. It's wonderful. There is no pain or soreness when applying Ice-Mint or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

Think of it; just a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint, and real foot joy is yours.

Ice-Mint prevents foot odors, and keeps them sweet and comfortable. It is the real Japanese secret for fine, healthy little feet, and keeps you free from winter foot troubles. Every person who has suffered with stubborn corns or tender feet can appreciate the cooling, soothing comfort that it brings, especially women who wear high heeled shoes, and men who have to stand all day on their feet. Try it. Get a few cents' worth of Ice-Mint from your druggist today and give your poor, tired, suffering, burning feet the treat of their lives. There is nothing better.

Miss Barbara Frost, Miss Rosamond Holton and Mrs. William F. King were among the many Junior League Glee Club members who contributed to the happiness of the patients at the Eye and Ear Infirmary by their singing.

ber C. Bayliss, Mrs. Philip D. Wilson, Mrs. George S. West, Mrs. Hamilton Osgood, Jr., Mrs. Henry G. Lord, Mrs. Ezra Thayer, Miss Ruth Bayliss, Mrs. Everett Morse, Jr., and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft will assist at the tea tables.

SOCIETY PEOPLE ARE travelling about a good deal at this time, some going to Europe and the tropics, others returning. Nelson W. Aldrich and Arthur Allen have departed on the Dominica for a three-week cruise of the Caribbean and the West Indies. Mr. and Mrs. Laurence W. Morgan of Dedham have left for Florida, where they will make a fortnight's visit at Palm Beach with Mrs. Charles L. Harding, who has a villa there. Mrs. Lyttleton Fox and Mrs. LeBarron Russell are other house guests at Chiora, as the Harding villa is named. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fessenden and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Barton Lathrop are at the Berkshire Hotel for the few days. At the Ambassador, Mrs. Robert Codman and Miss Catherine Amory Codman have returned from a visit to Atlantic City and will stay there a few days before returning home.

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., WILL be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Souverneur Hoffman when they return from their honeymoon in the South. Mrs. Hoffman was formerly Miss Priscilla Bache of Wahan. Her wedding took place at the home of her mother, Mrs. John S. Cranston, Chestnut st., Wahan. Mrs. Hoffman was a member of the Smith College class of 1927 and was of the first group to be sent, in her junior year, by the college, for a year's study at the Sorbonne, Paris. Following her graduation from Smith, she took a two years' post-graduate course at Bryn Mawr.

MRS. RICHARD SEARS IS giving a dinner tomorrow evening for her daughter, Miss Mary, who is at home from boarding school. Mrs. Hollis G. Batchelder is having a dinner-party at the Country Club. The young people will attend the fifth in the series of Whitney Hall dances later in the evening. This group of dances for the sub-deb set is in charge of Mrs. Follen Cabot, assisted by Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Mrs. Stoughton Bell, Mrs. Charles Terry Collens, Mrs. Marshall Fabyan, Mrs. J. Colby Bassett and Mrs. Malcolm B. Stone.

BOSTON SOCIETY WILL BE represented tomorrow at the wedding in New York of Miss Elizabeth Harriet Drew to H. Charles Tomlinson of Croyden, England, by Miss Adeline Wheeler and Mrs. Donald McLaughlin, who will be bridal attendants. The wedding couple will sail on the Lancastria Saturday for England.

A DEPARTURE FROM THE usual program has been made in favor of a moving picture demonstration by the alumni association of the School of the Museum of Fine Arts for the benefit of the Museum School Library. The progress of the motion picture from its beginning to present day achievement, pointing out the salient changes which have been made from time to time, is the subject matter of the film. The Atkins Guild has directed it and has made a very interesting picture, entertaining as well as instructive. It is being shown this afternoon at the lecture hall of the museum at 2:30.

Retreat for Young Men Begins April 6

The Young Men's Catholic Association of Boston will open its fifty-fifth annual retreat in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, East Concord st., Sunday evening, April 6, at 7:45. The retreat in the upper church will be conducted by Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., and in the lower church by Rev. Cornelius A. Murphy, S. J.

ENCORE ADDS FLAVOR TO CONCERT

By MOSES SMITH

Either music critics are a force for good in this musical town or else the public doesn't need them. One of these conclusions seems inevitable as the result of a modern miracle—an encore at a chamber music concert.

The Compinsky Trio, which has played several concerts here in the last two years, drew a large audience to Jordan Hall last night. And this audience enjoyed itself so keenly that at the close of a long program the three players returned to play the scherzo from the Brahms E major Trio. When a Boston audience, after sitting through almost two hours of trio music, asks for more, we are ready to say a musical regeneration has come.

We are, you can see, very happy about this little incident. For it seems to lend some weight to our oft-reiterated conviction that chamber music is as enjoyable as olives or caviar—if you will only cultivate a taste for it. Fortunately Boston audiences are being given more and more opportunity for such cultivation, what with repeated concerts here recently by the Compinskys, The Musical Art Quartet, various quartets at the Boston Public Library and, for a more limited audience, the concerts of the Flute Players' Club.

The program last night began with a long Trio in D minor by Rachmaninoff and ended with a Brahms Trio in C minor, Opus 101. In between was Ravel's in A minor. None of this struck us as great music, yet each of them was good music, each in the characteristic vein of the composer. And all three pieces were beautifully played by these remarkable musicians.

School Supervisor Resigns Under Fire

Meriden, Ct., March 21 (AP)—Arthur F. Smith, laundry supervisor at Connecticut School for Boys, which has been the target for four inquiries into accusations that inmates had been brutally punished, has resigned, Supt Edward S. Boyd said today.

Smith was secured by present and past inmates of the school.

Supt Boyd said Smith had been "quick tempered, and had left to go into private business. The superintendent said he stood ready to answer for acts of subordinates as he should have known everything that had gone on involving both inmates and officers.

12 More Students in Extra N. Y. Flight

The ship, piloted by Edward Weatherdon, with Ted Kenyon as co-pilot, left at 1 o'clock, the third of five New York flights today, with the same number scheduled for tomorrow. The students were bound for New York to spend their spring vacation at their homes.

Shirtwaist Wardrobes in Favor; Sleeves Will Be Shorter; Simple Jewelry Smart

In order to derive the fullest value in smartness from a suit there must be the original blouse completing it, and at least one more blouse to change it into quite a different costume! The shirtwaist wardrobe of several years ago has bounded right back into style in the wake of other fashions harking back to pre-war times.

The soft, dressy blouse pictured is most adaptable and becoming, and combines several very new style features. It is of beige silk crepe, and can be worn tuck-in, or as shown, over-blouse style with tailored belt and small pearl buckle. Groups of tucks on the shoulders add to its softness. The tone of the blouse proper and a deeper shade of beige form the attractive dressmaker bows finishing the sleeves and draped neckline.

COMBINING two or three shades of one color is a subtle and charming style detail this season. The length of sleeves is probably one of the most significant trends in the spring mode. Outstandingly smart are the sleeves on the blouse pictured as short sleeves are so very young, becoming, and undeniably 1930. One sees them on every type of frock, so, of course, they must naturally influence the blouse mode, too.

Even coats may shorten their sleeves, according to word from Paris that cites an instance of a three-quarter length sleeve featured on a coat of black broadcloth. The long glove is a needed accessory with a sleeve of this type, of course.

The trig hat pictured is of Panamalac, the brim folded, and caught at back with crystal ring.

THE modest strand of pearls and similarly simple jewelry is, by all the rules of fashion, the best for spring. For clothes that feature prettiness, with elaborations of bows, lace and whatnot, would surely lose quality having fussy trinkets worn with them.

The jewelry that is acceptable includes necklaces of galalith, bakelite and opaque glass; and these colors are considered especially style-right, gray-blues, dark greens, beige, rust and brown.

HINTS ON COOKING BACON

Bacon is really more than a breakfast meat since, next to butter, it is the most digestible form of food fat. It certainly has a place on the breakfast table not shared by any other product, and in combination with other foods it adds flavor and palatability.

The bacon we've been serving in the Martha Lee Kitchen is made from New England fresh dressed pork, of course.

And now that we have cut our bacon, let's proceed to cook it. To properly broil bacon it should be placed on a wire rack over a dripping pan. Broil under a hot fire and when one side is delicately brown turn and brown the other side. This is your best (ideal) method of cooking bacon.

To pan broiling place slices of cold bacon in a cool frying pan over a low fire and cook slowly. Pour off the excess fat from time to time and turn frequently, increasing the heat gradually.

For oven cooking, place the strips of bacon in a shallow pan and cook in a hot oven at 400 F. until browned on both sides.

GIVES ICE CREAM TIPS

Still quoting from Mr. Den Dooven's demonstration lecture at our graduation exercises, I do want to repeat his suggestion on using commercial ice cream for home desserts.

Mr. Den Dooven feels as we do that it is far easier and more economical to purchase ice cream than it is to fuss with the making of it at home. But he does thoroughly believe in dressing up the cream that you buy from the neighborhood store in the easy but attractive method which he demonstrated.

As you can see from the illustration, the slices from the brick are cut in finger shaped or triangular pieces or in rectangles and surrounded by sweet cookies and decorative touches of preserved and flavored whipped cream. Crushed strawberries or other fruit may be poured around the base of the cream and lady fingers substituted for the cookies.

TRY A BAKED ALASKA

A solid pint or quart brick of ice cream will serve as a foundation for the world's most delicious dessert—a baked Alaska. To make this, cut a layer of sponge cake an inch larger all the way around than your brick of ice cream. Place it on a piece of heavy wax paper on a steak plank or other board. Now place the hard brick of ice cream on the cake and cover both the cake and the ice cream completely with a meringue made from stiffly beaten egg whites into which granulated sugar has been sifted in the proportions of 1 tbsp. of sugar to 1 egg white.

A more company dessert is a CHARLOTTE GLACE PANACHE.

Turn the required number of lady fingers and with them line the sides of individual charlotte molds; then fill up the middle with vanilla ice cream and strawberry ice cream in equal portions. Turn out on a dessert plate, decorate with whipped cream around it, and serve.

Note: This may be made in large forms and may be made with vanilla, or with any flavor.

"Coupes are very simple to make and serve," says Mr. Den Dooven in his Modern Cook Book. "They are, however, classed as a luxury and bring high prices in hotels and restaurants. You can make them easily and inexpensively, however with a foundation of a quart of ice cream from your neighborhood store.

COUPE ANTIGNY

For Coupe Antigny, for instance, fill five coupe or sherbet glasses half full with sliced fresh or canned peaches, then place on top a round ball of strawberry ice cream. Decorate with whipped cream around the ice cream, and serve. One pint of cream will make five coupes.

Coupe Contessa is made by half filling the coupe glasses with sliced peaches and over the peaches pour one or two tbsp. of Melba sauce. Next, one pint of vanilla ice cream is divided in equal portions and placed on top of the peaches. A slice of peaches placed on the ice cream and the dessert is served.

Fresh strawberries with strawberry ice cream and decorations of whipped cream and a coupe made of mixed fruit, lemon sherbet and strawberry ice cream are equally delicious.

These attractive individual ice cream desserts were transformed by K. Camille Den Dooven from brick ice cream during his lecture at the Martha Lee school. The famous chef also showed how to make dainty eclairs.

This Recipe Makes Dainty Eclairs—Try It

"How can I make cream puffs and eclairs that will really puff?" is a frequent question in my morning mail, and for which the best possible answer is the following recipe from "The Modern Cook Book," by K. Camille Den Dooven. Mr. Den Dooven has made these eclairs in the Martha Lee Kitchen with this unfailing success and assurance that even the novice housewife can be equally successful.

CREAM PUFFS AND ECLAIRS

Quantity	Weights or Measure
1	cup milk—½ pt.
1	tbsp. butter—4 ounces
1	tbsp. sugar—½ ounce
1	tsp. salt—¼ tsp.
1	cup flour—4 ounces
4	eggs—4 eggs

Put butter, milk, sugar, and salt in saucepan, and bring to a boil. When boiling, add the flour and stir up briskly until the paste is smooth. (If the paste is removed from the fire too soon, the puffs may not spring properly during the baking process.) After taking from the fire, mix in one egg at a time and work well each time before adding another egg. When all the eggs are added, drop on a baking sheet, the size of an egg yolk for puffs, or in finger shapes for eclairs, and bake in an oven at a temperature of 350 deg. F.

When the puffs or eclairs are baked, fill them with custard cream or whipped cream and dust with powdered sugar. For Chocolate Cream Puffs, fill with a chocolate custard cream and ice with chocolate icing.

Coffee cream and icing produces Coffee Cream Puffs and vanilla cream and icing, of course, is used for the Vanilla variety.

For Chocolate Eclairs, make a finger-shaped puff, fill with chocolate custard cream and ice with chocolate icing.

"Cream Puff paste," Mr. Den Dooven adds, "may be fried the same as doughnuts. When fried, dust with sugar, or they may be filled with boiled custard cream, or jellies and jams.

A Real Treasure

SAUCE ADVICE IS ALSO GIVEN BY DEN DOOVEN

TWO of the most engible and interesting graduations ever observed in the Mar Lee School of Practical Cookery took place this week when thhides' and Business Girls' Class and the Homemakers' Class recei their diplomas by Martha Lee.

It was really a triplar bill—K. Camille Den Dooven, culinary authority, gave a werful lesson on pie crust and saucemaking, Richard Klofkorn, sertising manager of the H. P. Hood & Sons Company, served asirman of the entertainment and refreshment committees and Mha Lee presided as hostess.

Pie-making presents one of the most common problems to both novice and experienced homemak but those who heard and saw Mr. Den Dooven's demonstration lecture on the art of perfect pastry making, certainly need never apologize again for their pie crust.

"There is no doubt that pies are the favorite pastry," said Mr. Den Dooven. "But not many know how to make a good, flaky crust, and very few makes a pie day after day which has the same, fine uniformity. This is due to carelessness in measuring the ingredients."

Here is Mr. Den Dooven's recipe, both in terms of the ordinary measuring standards used by the average housewife and in the more accurate weights.

PIE CRUST

Quantity, weight or measure.
1½ cups pastry flour, 6 ounces.
½ cup crisco, 4 ounces.
1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp.
2 tsps. sugar, 2 tsps.
¼ cup cold water, 2 ounces.

Rub well together the flour and crisco; add the water with sugar and salt dissolved in it, and knead very little. Place in the ice box overnight and cover with a wet towel. This will give a very flaky pie crust, one which is tender, and the pies will be eaten with pleasure.

Note—Half butter and half crisco may be used.

Mr Den Dooven added a very helpful suggestion that while pastry or cake flour is used in the making of the pie crust, bread flour should be used for dusting the pastry board, since it will not stick as cake flour does.

The handsome pies which Mr. Den Dooven baked were awarded as gifts to fortunate graduates.

Den Dooven's Sauce Espagnole, which he prepared, is an exceptionally valuable recipe, since it

DRESS UP LENTEN DISHES

One of the things that every woman doesn't seem to know is that meals planned round fish and eggs mean clear skins, rested bodies and the overcoming of any tendency to high blood pressure. Not to mention expense reduced with health induced by the right fish and egg dishes.

A lunch of a sardine, stuffed egg and lettuce salad, toasted graham bread and ginger ale insures a brilliant afternoon's work for the business man or woman.

For the more substantial fish meal, try baked cod or haddock with tomato stuffing and oyster sauce

Salt fish is one of the best appetizers, especially smoked salmon, broiled or in thin sauce, and finnan haddie, steamed, baked in milk or in Newburg.

Spanish omelet with buttered toast, dressed lettuce and hot gingerbread makes a meal not to be sneezed at.

These fish croquettes are to be served with creamed peas, savory egg sauce and garnished with sliced lemons.

HALIBUT CROQUETTES

2 cups minced, boiled halibut.
2 tbsps. butter.
1-3 cup flour.
1 cup scalded milk
Few drops onion juice.
1 tsp. salt.
1 tsp. lemon juice.
1-8 tsp. white pepper
1½ tsps. parsley, minced
2 tbsps. green peppers, minced.
1 egg.

Melt the butter, add the flour and gradually the milk. Season, stir in the fish, egg yolk and green pepper and chill. Make into balls containing one tablespoon each. Roll in sifted, fine, dry bread crumbs, then in the egg white slightly beaten and diluted with one-fourth cup milk. Roll in crumbs again and fry in deep fat hot enough to brown a bit of bread in a minute.

Eggs a la Napoli are also ovencooked.

EGGS A LA NAPOLI

Melt a tablespoonful of butter over a slow fire and add gradually one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour, cook to a smooth paste, then add one and a half cupfuls of milk, stirring all the time, and four tablespoons of grated cheese, half a teaspoonful of salt and one-quarter teaspoonfuls of paprika. Remove from the fire and stir in a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Pour half the sauce into a shallow baking dish and break in from four to six fresh eggs, sprinkle these with salt and pepper and cover with the remaining sauce. Sprinkle grated cheese and paprika over the top of the dish and bake in a moderate oven—350 deg. F. for 10 minutes.

PORTUGUESE EGGS

Chop two small onions fine and cook them in three tablespoonfuls of oil or butter to a light brown, add a cupful of chopped mushrooms, canned or fresh and two tbsps. finely chopped ham or tongue. When the mushrooms have cooked a few moments, pour a cupful of canned tomatoes into the frying pan and add half a teaspoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper. Then break in four or five eggs and simmer over a gentle fire until the eggs are set.

And when we come to omelets, you can produce either the sweet jelly concoction for the ladies' luncheon or a hearty ham one for father's breakfast or a vegetable one substantial enough for the main dinner dish. I've repeated my recipe for puffy omelet so many times that I'm sure you all know it by now. If not, you know how to get it, don't you? Just write in to me at 5 Winthrop sq., enclosing a loose two-cent stamp, and I'll be glad to send it to you.

SAUCE ESPAGNOLE

Cook together, stirring constantly to prevent burning, 2 tbsps. butter, 1 carrot sliced very thin, 1 onion thinly sliced, 4 pepper corns and a tablespoon of bay leaf, thyme, and parsley, mixed together. When this is light brown, add ¼ cup bread crumbs and cook until well browned. Then add 2 cups brown soup stock, a little at a time, or 2 cups of boiling water to which 3 bouillon cubes have been added. Season to taste with salt and pepper and strain. Bring to a boiling point and add a few dabs of butter.

Brown Mushroom Sauce was quickly made by adding to the Sauce Espagnole ¼ cup sliced mushrooms which were browned in butter.

Sauce Devonshire was made by adding to the Sauce Espagnole 2 tbsps. of red currant jelly and 1 tsp. lemon juice, a drop of essence of anchovy and a dash of cooking wine

Stuffed Japanese Crab A La Bechamel

Cut two large cans of Japanese crabmeat into small pieces. Scald 1½ c. milk with small pieces of bay leaf. Remove bay leaf and make a white sauce of 2 tbsps. butter, 2 tbsps. of flour and milk, then add ½ tsp. salt, a few grains cayenne, a little nutmeg, 1 tsp. chopped parsley and yolks of 2 eggs slightly beaten, and lemon juice. Add crabmeat, fill dishes and cover ½ c buttered crumbs and bake until crumbs are brown.

Millions of years ago... the SUN... went into the gas business

The annual consumption of gas in the United States is now more than two billion cubic feet.

Over 150,000 miles of Gas mains in the United States bring day and night Gas Service to the desired locations.

In manufacturing and industry there are over 20,000 uses for Gas . . . the only fuel that can be used successfully in many cases.

The United States Gas industry serves over 17 million customers and ranks seventh in point of capital investment.

Gas is the healthful and curative, life-giving heat energy taken from the sun ages ago by prehistoric plant life. With millions of years of gigantic pressure, nature has transformed this vegetable matter into coal and oil . . . from which Gas is extracted for present day use.
Gas to the modern woman is the modern fuel... the better fuel. The Housewife, manager of the world's biggest industry... the home... cooks with gas ... washes, dries and irons with gas... refrigerates with gas ... disposes of trash with gas... heats her home with gas... depends upon gas for continuous hot water. Leading hotels, clubs, institutions, manufacturers use gas as the preferred and most practical fuel. Over 20,000 different uses for gas are employed by manufacturers. Gas is unfailing... economical... sure. It is modern. Let your Gas Company tell you the best way to use gas for either domestic or commercial needs. It will obligate you in no way.

SADDEST MOTHER SOUGHT FOR HEART-THROB ROLE IN 'MOTHER'S CRY'

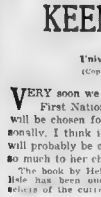
STUDIOS ARE EXPECTING KEEN COMPETITION

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

Los Angeles, March 21.

VERY soon we are going to have a mothers' contest on the First National lot and the mother that looks the saddest will be chosen for the marvelous role in "Mother's Cry." Personally, I think it has all been settled and that Belle Bennett will probably be cast for the role of the little mother who gives so much to her children and gets so little in return.

The book by Helen Grace Carlisle has been one of the best sellers of the current year. The tenderly interesting story of a mother whose only sin is in favoring her eldest born, an unworthy and unnatural child offers unusual interest.



Louella O. Parsons

Jack Warner who told me that First National had purchased the screen rights to this popular novel said that they were going to make tests of at least six different actresses who might be qualified to play mother roles.

A GOOD play remains a good play to the end of the chapter. "The Bad Man," in which Holbrook Blinn achieved a never-to-be-forgotten success on Broadway, should be as good today as it was when it played to packed houses some five years ago and later was made in the films in a silent version with Mr. Blinn in the leading role. First National figures, at least, that it is just as good, for they have engaged Walter Huston for the lead. Clarence Badger will direct and it is to be one of F. N.'s big time numbers.

THIS business is certainly one of borrow and lend. Bebe Daniels is definitely going to play the lead in "The Love Cottage," for Irving Berlin and in exchange has consented to sell the R K O company the screen rights to "Within the Law." Sounds a bit complicated, but just a case of "you scratch my back and I'll scratch yours." "Within the Law," Bayard Veiller's famous stage play, was one of Norma Talmadge's most successful screen dramas, and although it has been done several times on the screen and many times on the stage, it still has dramatic value as a play. As soon as Bebe finishes "The Love Cottage," she will be starred in "Within the Law," which is interesting because it shows that William Le Baron is wise in that he is going to vary the type of roles in which Bebe will appear.

THERE will be a welcome in Hollywood for Adolphe and Katheryn Menjou, who are now on their way here. They will make arrangements to sell their home, completing plans to return to France in the fall. Meanwhile, if Adolphe has the mind he can make a picture for either R. K. O. or Fox. Both of these companies made him an offer, but come what may, he is in duty bound to return to France at the end of the summer to make one more picture. They tell me that Adolphe's popularity among the French is astounding. Although he was born in America, he is of French parentage and they think as much of him as if he were the home-grown product.

ANYONE who says the training in the theater is of no account in the talkies is entirely mistaken. I think the case of Elise Bartlett proves that. Elise simply couldn't get a job in the movies. She is a good actress, too, and unusually attractive. Then came a series of stage plays in which she appeared for the Civic Repertory Theater in Hollywood. The producers looked at Elise with fresh interest, with the result that she signed a very lucrative contract with Warner Brothers. Her first picture is "See Naples and Die," which Archie Mayo will direct. That reminds me that Al Dubin and Joe Burke sent me a telegram to say they have composed and written the score for "See Naples and Die." The two boys have also just signed a new long-term contract.

ENGAGEMENTS

ONE hears many rumors of pending engagements and romances these days, for in Hollywood in the spring young men's thoughts turn just as lightly to love as they do in Hoboken and elsewhere. One announcement that comes from a highly authentic source is that of Jack Pickford and Mary Melhearne, at present, while "Follies" dancer and member of a well known New York family. This will be Jack's third matrimonial venture. He married in Olive Thomas whose tragic death in Paris a few years ago was widely mourned. Later he married Marilyn Miller who divorced him in Paris two years ago. Jack, who returned from a trip to the Orient with his sister, Mary Pickford, and her husband, the early part of the year, has been trying to gain back his health.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Jack Pickford and Mary Melhearne lunching at the Embassy with James Kirkwood. Elise Bartlett hostess in luncheon party at the same place. Catherine Dale Owen wearing a pale make up among the guests; also Carmel Myers in a large summer straw hat, the first of the season. Constance Talmadge and Townsend Netcher on their way to Agua Caliente to attend the Coffroth handicap race. Mary Pickford escorting Lady Mountbatten to Jim's to have her hair waved. Gilbert Roland at Truckee on lookout. Irving Berlin on his way to New York, where he may find a leading man for his picture. Al Jolson taking the wife, Ruby Keeler, to the fights. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

"OTHELLO" IS NEW LEIBER SUCCESS

OFTEN, the last is best. Mr. Fritz Leiber has presented a number of Shakespearean characters, each differing in more or less marked degree from treatment at the hands of other great actors. Each that he has offered has been compelling. His differences have mostly been very striking; one like his work, whether or not one agrees with him. In "Othello," at the Wilbur last night, he gave an Iago that also was different, and so masterfully drawn as powerfully portrayed, that it seemed to be the best of the number of superior things that Mr. Leiber has done.

At his hands Iago loses many of the emotional frills of past characterization. Again Mr. Leiber's chiseling is always fine, the resulting figure is clear-cut. Conceive Iago as brilliant in intellect and superman in will, as dominating the lives of those about him, as astanic in craft and motive, and great is one's delight in the Leiber picture. He makes one think that Iago is indeed the greatest impersonation of evil in all literature.

He and his colleagues gave a notable performance of this great tragedy of love and hate; their work was in general up to the high level of this masterly play with its great plot, and its simplicity and symmetry. Mr. Jenks, a sterling actor, had the title role; he was superb. Virginia Bronson, as Desdemona, Vera Allen as Emilia, John Burke, as Brabantio, Lawrence Cecil as Cassio, and Philip Quin as Montano, were excellent.

The rest of the plays this week are: tonight, "King Lear"; tomorrow afternoon, "Taming of the Shrew"; tomorrow night, "Julius Caesar." These have been previously presented in the current visit of the company.

"HONEY" IS SWEET OFFERING ON METROPOLITAN SCREEN

"HONEY" on screen, and Paul Ash handling a splendid revue for the stage presentation, make the Metropolitan's program unusually entertaining this week. This is Ash's first appearance here, one should not be deceived by that rarely seen method of his as master of ceremonies. His introduction of his features and his personality make him one of the very best in his specialty—perhaps the best of them all.

DELIGHTFULLY pleasing is the word for "Honey," starring Nancy Carroll, and recalling her picture "Sweetie," even if this be only its successor in spirit only. Paramount has given the new film a corking good cast, so that Miss Carroll, beauteous as she is to behold, by no means tops her co-workers. For the first honors fall to Oscar Shaw, Harry Green, Skeets Gallagher, and Lillian Roth, with tiny Mitzi Green proving herself able to get an edge on performers far older than she. "Honey" is finely photographed, and the direction can be lauded for the way in which the action "steps on the gas" while the fun seems to be most of the time in high. Abundance of melody has been injected into the picture which might be called a musical revision of the stage play, "Come Out Of The Kitchen," in which Ruth Chatterton starred.

Miss Carroll is cast as the daughter of a poverty-stricken Virginia family forced to lease the parental mansion to Johyna Ralston, in order to gain money to pay off a mortgage. When the widow moves into the mansion with her daughter, Lillian Roth, her prospective son-in-law, Stanley Smith, and her detective guardian, Harry Green, there is a shortage of servants and Nancy and her brother, Skeets Gallagher, are forced to assume the roles of cook and butler respectively. A series of hilarious comedy episodes result from this situation. Of course Stanley Smith falls in love with Nancy, even though he is unaware that she is a high-born Virginian and not really a kitchen menial. All works out happily—and comically.

"Hello Boston" is appropriately among the title of Mr. Ash's first offering in this city. The revue hasn't progressed very far before the Ziegfeld "grant of jazz" shows his merit. He is the type that grows upon you, the longer you know him; probably the soul in the harbinger of other work on the Metropolitan stage. Though he hides his light under a bushel as master of ceremonies, preferring to build up and set forth the show, he is capable in several lines, notably music. Some of his performers are persons he himself "discovered," like George Dewey Washington, who was a steamboat porter when Mr. Ash happened to hear him sing. Helen Kane was another of his "finds." His presentation is uncommonly good, among its big features being Helen Lewis and her guitar band, Ina Williams and Jere Delaney, Paul Small, Darlene Walders, M. DuVal & Co., and Margie Green.

DUAL CONSOLE ORGAN DUET

ANNOUNCEMENT comes from the management of the New B. F. Keith that patrons of that theater may now view, for the first time in New England, a giant dual Wurlitzer organ, with twin consoles, one on either side of the stage, played simultaneously by Roy Frazee and Frank Mahler, R. K. O. featured organists.

Dressed in white satin tuxedoes, in keeping with the white and gold auditorium of the consoles, Frazee and Mahler present as their initial duet, "A Bouquet of Melodies."

The Wurlitzer dual console organ is attracting considerable attention among organists and musicians in general, who know of this new adjunct to the New B. F. Keith. While several other large theaters throughout the country have added this type of instrument for the entertainment of their patrons, the new Keith house here is the first in New England to install it. Guests organists from all parts of the country will be seen and heard at the theater at intervals.

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. Here are three reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) The Ford charges for financing are low.

(3) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. It leaves the factory ready for use. The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices. None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and figure out just what you are getting for your automobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

WHEN you do this you will have a new appreciation of what the Ford Motor Company and Ford dealers are doing to keep down the cost of Ford cars. You will also know why it is possible to put so much real value into the new Ford and still retain the low price. The money you pay goes for value in the car. It is not wasted in excessive costs in manufacturing or selling.

Porch Climber Loots Medford Homes

Daring Story of Eternal Love Triangle

Ardath Carroll, beauty, lives in the drab home of her Aunt Stella. Neil Burke, downstairs, claims Ardath as his. She is uncertain. She yearns for a fuller life. She quarrels with her cousin, Bet, whose room she shares. Ardath sees the man of her dreams, Ken Gleason. Neil is furiously jealous. Jeannette Parker, society girl, plans to use Ardath in a scheme for revenge. She opens a shop and engages Ardath to run it. Ardath sees that she can never marry Neil. Ken comes to the shop and meets Ardath. Both are secretly impressed. Next day Ken takes her home in his auto. Sunday they spend on Ken's houseboat. Their first kiss.

IN the days which followed that golden Saturday Ardath tasted the dregs of humiliation.

She had been a fool! She had fallen in love with a man who cared nothing for her. What had been to her a glorious dream had been to him merely another necking party.

Memory flashed pictures to torment her. Ken's eyes smiling down into her own. . . . His voice murmuring, "Like me a little?" How fervently she had clung to him. . . .

"Oh. . . . Oh!" She pressed her hands to her hot cheeks in shame.

He thought her cheap . . . that was why he had not come into the store. . . .

Her own wretched face stared forlornly back at her from the glass. Why had she been so crazy to get so. . . . But, oh, how cruel—how needlessly cruel he was! She hated him . . . almost as much as she hated herself.

Life was flat and miserable. Days were endless—nights were worse. She tossed with unhappy dreams until Bet, loudly complained, or she lay staring wide-eyed and miserable into the dark long after the rest of the family had fallen asleep.

She lashed herself up to a sort of self-scorn.

Well, what else could she expect? Did a man have to marry a girl simply because he took her on a Sunday outing and gave her a few careless kisses?

A little love-making—that meant nothing in these days. A man didn't marry every girl he kissed. What she had thought the big act of her life wasn't even the prologue. She had met Ken Gleason . . .

He had kissed her—and nothing was changed after all.

Here she was, where she had always been, in the flat greyness of the Harrison house.

Nothing changed but herself . . . Now she could no longer trick herself into happiness by little things. Making new curtains for the room she shared with Bet—buying a silk remnant for a new dress on her lunch hour—rides with Neil in the little car—trivial, of a sudden Colorless.

Momenta when she had to struggle to keep from showing hot rebellion at it all. She hated these people—this shabby flat. Hated the ugly square "mission" furniture—part of Aunt Stella's wedding set. Hated the faded Axminster rug—the ugly center lamp with its "artglass" shade. She was alien . . . wretched.

When Neil came up to see her, she lay down in her dark room and pretended she had a headache. Maddening to sit and face Neil's tall lean figure in the cheap suit—when all her heart was crying out for Ken.

Then, moved at the sight of his thin face and sombre eyes she relented. She went for a ride with him, one night.

Relief, in driving along the dark highway like this, the ocean washing lonesomely on her right. The wind was cold and fresh against her closed eyelids. A relief to be carried along without thought. Even if only Neil wouldn't talk to her.

He grew puzzled and resentful at her silence.

She told him she was tired.

"Sure, you're tired" he growled "You an' working your head off to freeze for that society dame you've gone in with. And what are you going to get out of it? They're all alike, rich people. Get all they can and then throw you to one side."

The words might have been about Ken. She took them on her sore heart.

They argued. Almost quarrelled and Neil left her in the dark front hall with a gruff "Good night!"

A wretched pity in Ardath's heart as she climbed the creaking stairs, pulling off her coat. Why did someone have to bring unhappiness to someone else. She was causing Neil the same heartache Ken caused her . . .

Jeanette's "smokerie" opened with a flourish. It was hailed with delight by her friends, who descended upon it breathing superlative admiration.

A diminutive Chinese girl had been engaged—not for services alone, but to give distinctive color to the shop. Ah-Ling, who privately answered to the more prosaic "Rosie" was American born and spoke pure English with perhaps more precision than Jeanette herself. But Ah-Ling had her orders.

COLD SNAP IS ON WAY TO HUB

The first day of Spring descended upon Boston today much warmer than yesterday. The Weather Bureau, however, exposed the seemingly summerish spell by warning that the warmth is only a forerunner of some very cold hours for tomorrow and possibly later.

Yesterday's lowest mark was in the early hours, with 26 degrees above, but for the same hours today the average was 44.

Today is a normal spring opener, but misleading.

Mrs. Ethel Perry, 30, divorcee, of Everett, was held under bonds of $1000 for hearing March 28, after pleading not guilty today in the Malden district court on a charge of abandoning an infant male child.

DE VALERA IN HUB SATURDAY

Eamonn De Valera will arrive in Boston Saturday to address a meeting in Symphony Hall on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

In January, Gen. Sean MacEoin, one of the officers of the Free State, was in Boston and issued to the press a lengthy article containing various statements in regard to Ireland; containing also, various accusations against De Valera.

Gen. MacEoin was promptly invited on the following day to meet De Valera on the platform of either Mechanics Building or Symphony Hall. The general, however, declined to do so.

The meeting Sunday night is being held under the auspices of various societies, all represented on the committee which has charge of the arrangements.

De Valera still adheres to his position against the present situation in Ireland and will give his reasons for maintaining that the establishment of the Free State did not mean Irish freedom or put an end to the long fight.

HARBOR BRIDGE REJECTED BY HOUSE

Bridge to East Boston Wins as Curley Bill Is Deferred

A vehicular tunnel to East Boston was accepted as definitely assured today, following the action of the House in refusing to admit for the current session Mayor Curley's bill to allow choice between a bridge and a tunnel.

In view of this action, announcement of plans for the much-mooted project were expected at an early date.

A four-fifths vote is necessary to suspend the rules to admit a bill for consideration after the time for filing new business has expired.

[illegible] to the bridge bill that when Speaker Saltonstall declared the voice vote against suspension, no one questioned the vote.

The action of the House leaves the proposition of a tunnel, as provided by act of last year's Legislature the only proposition with any standing and it is assumed that the Boston transit board will go ahead with the tunnel plans and construction at once.

The fact that several Boston members took the floor in opposition to any amendment of last year's act, which would allow the mayor a choice between a bridge and a tunnel was a surprise.

Mayor Curley, after conference with various business men and others soon after he went into office in January decided to give consideration to a bridge instead of a tunnel.

CARDINAL GLAD TO BE BACK AT DESK

His Eminence Returns Much Improved From Vacation in the Bahamas

Cardinal O'Connell returned to his desk today after spending two months in the West Indies and the Bahamas much improved in health and well prepared to tackle the bulk of matters requiring his attention, which had accumulated in his absence.

Expressing happiness to be again with his flock, the cardinal felt deeply the loss of his personal attendant and one of his dearest friends, Atty. Henry Cunningham, word of whose death had been forwarded to him.

Although declining to make any statement on his arrival in Boston on the situation in Russia and other current events of the past month, Cardinal O'Connell intimated that he would have something to say on these matters at a later date.

"I am in good health," the cardinal said. "I have never been in as fine health, in fact. We went for a rest and did nothing but rest at Nassau. We were there for a month and we found it very conducive to resting."

It was with enthusiasm that the cardinal spoke about his trip and dwelt on the peace he found during the month past at Nassau. He sailed on the Consulich liner Vulcania from New York on Jan. 23, touching Port au Prince in Haiti; Kingston, Jamaica; La Guayra in Venezuela, Panama City in the Canal Zone, Havana, and then Nassau where he left the cruise.

The trip was practically the same which he made in 1927. Good weather prevailed throughout, with warm, sunny days cooled at the height of the day by trade winds.

The Cardinal was accompanied on the cruise by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael J. Splaine, D. D. L. P. P., of St. Mary's of the Assumption, Brookline, and the Rev. Joseph F. Coppinger, L. P. P., of St. Augustine's Church, Dedham. Like the Cardinal, they also seemed to have been greatly refreshed by the voyage and the rest at Nassau.

An informal welcoming party from Boston met the Cardinal and his party on their arrival in New York. This committee included his secretary, Rt. Rev. Francis A. Burke; his nephew, Joseph F. O'Connell, Frederick A. Carroll, Col. Francis V. Logan and John J. Ryan. After a brief stay in New York His Eminence came on to Boston.

PUTS BILLS UP TO NEW BOARD

Responsibility for payment of the deficit bills of the old schoolhouse commission lies squarely with the new commission.

With this statement, Chairman Frank A. Goodwin of the finance commission today clearly defined his stand on the controversy caused by his stopping of payment of the $74,000 old bills as being illegal.

Commenting upon the argument of Richard J. Lane of the new school commission that an emergency existed, Mr. Goodwin replied:

"The question as to whether or not there was such an emergency must have been determined by someone, and from Mr. Lane's statement I assume that his board has passed upon that question. This places the responsibility upon Mr. Lane and his associates, and not upon the school committee or corporation counsel."

FILES A BILL IN FAVOR OF HAYES

Representative Lewis R. Sullivan of Boston today asked the Legislative committee on rules to admit his bill for the reinstatement of William P. Hayes as a member of the Boston police department.

Hayes was discharged after he had left his post without authority. His condition was said to be due to disability resulting from service over seas in the World War.

Bishop Lawrence paid tribute to the justice as a soldier, legal author, orator and poet.

STUDENT FLIER HAS CLOSE CALL IN HOPOFF

Cliff Isaac of Skyways, Inc., Almost Strikes Church Steeple, but Effects a Landing

Failure to turn on his gasoline at full when he hopped off changed a conventional air spin into a perilous adventure for Cliff Melsaac today. Melsaac is office manager of Skyways, Inc., at the Boston airport. He holds a student's permit.

Using the $75,000 Timkin plane, Melsaac barely managed to clear the tops of the dozen buildings on the airport grounds. He gradually lost altitude and had a close call in almost striking the steeple of Sacred Heart Church. He managed to turn around and effect a landing at the extreme end of the airport. Apparently he was unharmed.

Life Extension Plan Elaborated by Ley

Checking the waste of human life at the older ages is the greatest need of the present, Harold A. Ley, president of the Life Extension Institute, said today at the sales congress of the Boston Life Underwriters' Association in Ford Hall.

Chronic diseases of the heart, blood vessels and kidneys are on the increase in this country, he said, together with a rise in the death rate of those beyond 40. He said the periodic health examination like that of his institute is sure to be regarded as a business necessity when life insurance companies fully recognize its value.

Shires Quits Looks Peculiar Baseball Virtue

ART SHIRES agrees to sign with the White Sox for half of his widely advertised demands—and his unconditional surrender is turned down, unless he will agree to answer certain questions of Owner Comiskey about the fight racket—the Great One refuses, and retires once more—this may become one of those cases: there's been so much smoke there must be some fire underneath—no good ball player like Art is willing to give up the game for a simple answer or two—no magnate like the shrewd Commy will pass up an athlete of the Shires caliber, unless something is sour in Denmark.

Shires was accused of entering framed fights, and suspended by several commissions—he explained satisfactorily that he had nothing to do with any framing and was declared as pure and innocent as a week old infant—but what may be innocence to a boxing commish, evidently isn't white wash to baseball—the boys in the game have been so frightened since the White Sox scandal that they all have spinal curvature from leaning backward—the least suspicion of taint means exile, unless, perhaps, in the case of an outstanding star, with plenty of influence in back—baseball has been packed with tragedy since the gang went virtuous and it looks now as if young Mister Shires might be the next innocent victim of a rather ridiculous righteousness—Art went into the fight racket, and was tossed around; that had to happen—but he shouldn't be ragged for life for something that a few money grabbing managers cooked up on him.

THE St. Louis Cards have a bespectacled catcher. Handy, in case he wants to lend the goggles to the umpire.

BOSTON will have a golf show the first week in April—every golfer makes a show of himself each time he plays, but a gang performance should go well—first time it ever has been tried here; but it has made a hit in New York and Chicago—golfers are the greatest fish in the world; fall for new and expensive clubs and paraphernalia, and like it—this first Boston exposition will have all the latest wrinkles, and golf has more than a Seminole centenarian—Dicky Martin, who conceived the idea that there was money in golf publicity and made himself rich, will be around to tell how he did it—that should help a lot of golfers; they certainly can't hope to get anything playing the game—the Copley-Plaza ballroom will be converted into a woodland glade which will be okay by the golfers if there are plenty of juniper bushes.

The experts pick the Sox and Braves
To finish in the sink.
These experts have so many raves,
Our teams will click, I think.

SPRING is here, but it still has to prove it; like the Bruins—the weather bureau should dope the league races: then nobody would be surprised if the forecast was sour—Nat Butler is building a new bike track at Revere: he will make it waterproof this time—the prices at that St. Johns track have silenced the Malden grocers—all horse players die broke, but they get that way long before death puts a merciful end to their woes—no, Gwendolyn, a banned book is not an orchestra score—a team that cannot get into some kind of a hockey playoff must be very poor indeed—the Army six-game agreement ruins chances of a resumption of Harvard Princeton tilts: as things are just now, Princeton doesn't care a bit—this March outdoor rowing comes under the head of numb scull practice.

OVER in New York they are calling the four foul life suspension rule the "bum's law." Probably because soon but the bums, as the boys call the palookas, will suffer under it.

DID you know that Primal Camera proved Manager Billy Duffy's financial saviour—that Primal hasn't proved anything else—that Vince Dundee is a brother of Joe, and just as tough—that Sinead Jolley cost the White Sox $50,000 and half that much again in tolls, trying to get him to report—that police are guarding Gregarlich, English steeplechase favorite they will take the credit if he cops—that lack of ideas is no excuse for atrocious puns—that this concludes our daily broadcast.

BRUINS NOW FAVORITES IN SERIES

By BILL GRIMES

MONTREAL, March 21—Having defeated the Montreal Maroons in the first battle of the playoff series, 2 to 1, in the longest series game on record, the Boston Bruins are now favored to capture the second contest here tomorrow night, and to win the series when the teams return to Boston.

Two more evenly matched teams have never met in a national hockey league playoff. For 105 minutes and 35 seconds, the Bruins and Maroons battled before Harry Oliver swicked home the winning goal.

In fairness to both teams, the Maroons had the edge on the defending champions during the opening period, during which neither scored was able to break through with a tally.

Bill Grimes

Shortly after half time, Dune Munroe broke away, and with Hitchman dividing his attention between the Maroon leader and Trottier, the former Canadian Olympic player knifed through the Bruin defense and scored the most sensational goal of the night.

As has been the case all season the Bruins refused to get panicky with the Maroons one goal out in front. They went about their business with their usual conservative manner and continued to press.

Weiland Takes Owen's Pass for First Bruin Score

With about five minutes to go, George Owen stole the puck from Hooley Smith, right after Archie Wilcox and Jimmie Ward had been sent to the penalty box.

Owen dashed down center ice and as he reached the defense, he swung to his left. He slipped the rubber across to Cooney Weiland who had broken out of the horde immediately after Owen had started his rush.

Cooney was in perfect position and Owen's pass was right on his stick. Then the game started, for Cooney rifled one by Walsh, which the Maroon goalie never had a chance to save.

Although the game was a stand off during the second period, the Bruins began to show their superority during the third period. They passed up many fine opportunities to score by going just off balance at the crucial moment.

There was nothing doing in the scoring line during the first 10-minute over time. Then, the teams went into the sudden death period. It was one of the wildest overtime periods of the season, in spite of the fact that neither team was playing to its usual standing.

Calder Orders Play Stopped to Clear Ice

After the teams had been battling for about 18 minutes play was stopped presumably to give Eddie Shore a penalty but before either officials could extend the finger to the Bruin defense man, President Frank Calder signaled the officials and ordered that the ice be cleaned.

Such a condition has never cropped up in a championship playoff, and Calder was roundly razzed by the Bruin followers, who were quick to perceive the motive behind the order. They believed that Calder wished to give the Maroons who were hard pressed, a chance to rest.

Manager Art Ross hopped over the fence and ran across the ice to tell Calder what he thought of his decision but after a short argument, he returned to his seat.

The players had a respite of about 10 minutes and then they went to it with a vengeance. Up and down the ice they traveled with the play about even. Finally Marty Barry, Perk Galbraith and Harry Oliver broke away and all dashed into Maroon ice. Barry slid the rubber over to Galbraith who, in turn, passed out in front of the net where Harry Oliver was jockeying around trying to rid himself of Dune Munro and George Boucher.

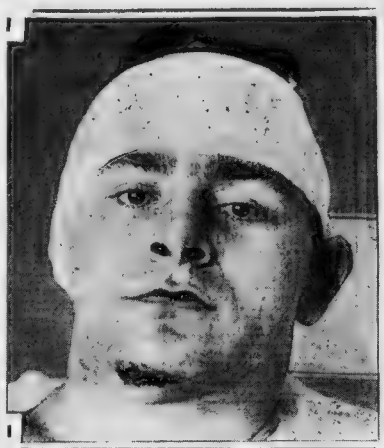
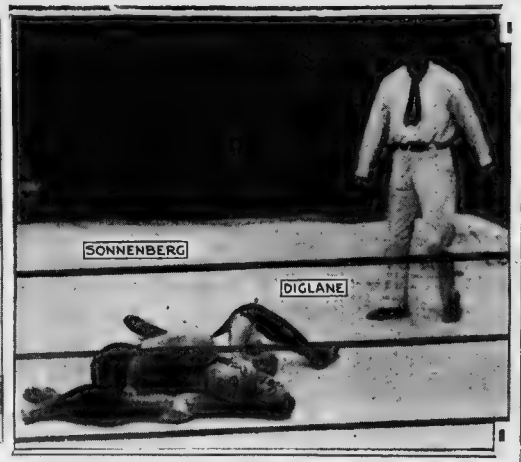
BATTERED VICTIM AND THRILLING MOMENT IN MAT WAR





Here on the left we have Henry Diglane, after the City Hospital doctors had patched him up. Henry almost took Gus Sonnenberg's title away at the Arena, but finally had to surrender when he was catapulted out of the ring, landed on his head, and was knocked dead. Covered with blood, he tried to get back into the ring, but couldn't make it. Picture on the right shows Sonny applying his punishing armlock, which he has learned to use with devastating effect. SONNENBERG RETAINS CROWN

By JACK CONWAY

HENRI DIGLANE, sensational French wrestler, was rushed to the City Hospital suffering from a severe contusion of the head, a six-inch wound on his chin and cuts on his left ear, following his defeat at the hands of Gus Sonnenberg in one of the most bitter wrestling bouts ever staged in the East.

The Frenchman was released from the hospital today, after spending the night under observation in the accident ward. Examination proved that he had suffered no skull concussion, as was at first feared.

Diglane met with his injuries when Sonnenberg scored with one of his famous flying tackles which sent the Frenchman and the title holder crashing through the ropes to the floor of the Arena.

When Diglane crawled back to the outer edge of the ring, the blood was spouting from his left ear. Several doctors who rushed to his assistance as soon as the match ended were at first of the opinion that Diglane had suffered a fracture of the skull.

The Frenchman's chin was split open by the force of the fall, while his left ear was a mass of cuts.

As soon as Diglane was given

Hockey Club Opens Series With Glasgow

Bobby Giddens, Harvard captain and star, will start at right wing for the Hockey Club in both games. 45 Bouts Carded in St. Joe's 'Pure' Show

The novice amateur boxers have their last chance to reach the finals of the Diamond Ring tourney when they battle in the final elimination tomorrow night at Mechanics Building, in the St. Joseph's T. A. B. weekly show.

Every class from the 112-pounders to heavyweights is carded, and Father Bill Cuddy reports his biggest entry list of the year, making it certain that there will be at least 45 bouts before all the winners are decided.

The bigger classes especially have more than their share of entries.

Hillies Sign O'Day

Pittsfield, March 21—Francis O'Day of Lowell, third baseman who has played on the Boston College baseball team for the last four years, has signed a contract with the Pittsfield club of the Eastern League, President Wilkinson announced.

Yes, Indeed! "Happy Days" Are Here Again—

In the greatly regretted past when it was positively immodest to whiz down Main street at twelve miles an hour in a gasoline buggy without wearing duster, auto cap and goggles—when the collegiate youth wore peg-top trousers of dimensions which made him enter the drawing room sideways—when it was the rule rather than the exception to find values comparable to the DARTFORD Men's Suit at $22.50.

Today such values excite both wonder and admiration—and make one say to himself, "Why pay more?"

The "Dartford" Two-Trouser Suit

A New-day Style At an Old-time Price $22.50

If you want a two-trouser suit that looks like a lot of money—a suit of 100% all wool worsted, except a few silk stripings—fabrics especially selected to hold their shape and stand the gaff—expertly cut, cleverly styled and skillfully finished—if you want such a suit for $22.50, a value obtainable but once in a dog's age—you'll want to step into a DARTFORD while the stepping is good.

Jake Zeramby, Lynn, vs. Joe Accetta, Providence.

Louis Nemis, Halifax, vs. Andy DiVodi, New York.

SIX ROUNDS

Jack McCarthy, Roxbury, vs. Johnny Milton, Peabody.

Bobby Brown, Lowell, vs. Steve Ketchell, Haverhill.

FOUR ROUNDS

Willie DeAngelis, Revere, vs. Gus Russo, Quincy.

First bout, 8 o'clock; main bout 10 o'clock.

JOHNNY INDRISANO of East Boston, will attempt to continue his climb towards the welterweight championship of the world in the Garden tonight, when he tackles Vince Dundee of Baltimore, hard-hitting brother of the former champion of the world.

The bout will be the first held in the Garden since the spectacular battle between Al Friedman and Tuffy Griffiths, and is expected to be another colorful clash, preceded by as great a preliminary card as has ever been offered to the boxing fans of New England.

Indrisano is sprinting toward the welterweight title on the best pair of legs in the boxing game. It was announced this morning that the winner of tonight's bout will battle Gorilla Jones in the feature bout in Madison Square Garden next Friday night.

If East Boston Johnny can explode his way past Dundee, he will be well on the road to the welterweight title.

Tonight will tell the story for Indrisano. If he can defeat Dundee, it is not only possible but probable that East Boston will be the home of a champion of the world before the summer is over.

Jake Zeramby Takes on Providence Lightweight

Jake Zeramby of Lynn, another favorite with the fans, will return to action in the 10-round semi-final against Joe Accetta of Providence, lightweight champion of Rhode Island, and Andy DiVodi, New York newsboy, who bores many bouts in New York, will make his local debut against Louis Nemis, hardhitting Halifax welterweight.

In the six-rounders, Jack McCarthy of Roxbury will be paired with Johnny Milton of Peabody and Bobby Brown of Lowell with Steve Ketchell of Haverhill, who in the four-rounder, Gus Russo of Quincy will meet Willie DeAngelis of Revere.

Carnera Scores 11th K. O.; Adds $12,000 to Roll

Jacksonville, Fla., March 21—Primo Carnera scored his 11th K. O. victory here by slapping down Frank Zavita, Newark, N. J., heavyweight, in one minute and 51 seconds. The Italian giant incidentally added about $12,000 to his bankroll, which is now over $110,000.

Zavita, whose reputation as a fighter extends no further than his home town, acted like one foredoomed to slaughter and accepted the lethal blow with resignation. Carnera will start soon on a tour of the West.

HUB 'PURES' SET FOR INVADERS

With all teams selected by the four cities, which will participate in the international boxing tournament at the Boston Arena next Monday night, indications point to one of the best tournaments of the year when Boston faces the invading champions from Montreal, Cleveland and Grand Rapids.

The schedule calls for 18 bouts in the six international classes with probably as many more in the two open classes—160 pounds and heavyweight.

Paul McNamara, Allston, and Dick Madden, Dorchester, State champion, have been selected to oppose Martin Lewandowski, Grand Rapids, national champion, and Jack Weinert, Cleveland, in the 175-pound class.

This big tournament, which is the last of the season prior to the national championships, is expected to develop into one of the best ever held in this city.

No Spring Football for B. C. Gridmen

Although practically every big Eastern university is now undertaking a spring football program it has been learned from Joe McKenney that Boston College will not follow suit.

McKenney has been adverse to spring football up until this year but announced at the close of the football season that he would give it a try this spring.

Tufts Squad Holds Outdoor Practice

The Tufts baseball men had their first official workout outdoors and will get out again this afternoon. The fly-chasers put in most of the afternoon shagging long drives that the coaches fungoed to them.

The infielders will line up this afternoon as well, the weather permitting, as Coach Nash doesn't want to take any chances on the players' throwing arms.

Jackson Five to Play Radcliffe

The Jackson basketball team, beaten in two previous games by Wheaton and Pembroke, will try to annex its first victory of the season when its meets the Radcliffe team at Tufts tomorrow afternoon. The Jackson and Radcliffe seconds will play a preliminary game.

Wagner Will Retain Eight Infielders With Red Sox

SIMMONS IS SENT HOME BY SOX BOSS

By JOE CASHMAN

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 21 —The Red Sox sent Pat Simmons, rookie right-handed pitcher, back to his home at Watervliet, N. Y., today after he had informed Manager Heinie Wagner that he was dissatisfied with his berth.

Simmons came to the Sox two years ago and hurled some great relief ball for the club during the 1927 season. Last spring, he was in poor shape and was farmed out to Pittsfield. He has been bothered with a sore arm ever since coming down here.

The Red Sox will probably carry two more fielders and one less pitcher this season than last and the same number of catchers and outfielders.

Which means that after June 15, when every club must cut down to 25 players, nine pitchers, eight infielders, five outfielders and three catchers, are likely to be retained by Manager Heinie Wagner.

Eight infielders is a lot for a big league team to carry, but the Sox are more in need of capable infield subs than they are of relief hurlers, so the pilot plans to keep two men for each fo the innire defense positions and cut down the mound staff.

If Boss Heinie had to select his squad today he would, in our opinion, pick Morris, Ruffing, Russell, Gaston MacFayden, Carroll, Lisenbee, Shields and Dobson as pitchers; Berry, Heving and Ashy as catchers; Todt and Sweeney for first base; Regan and Miller for second base; Reeves and Holman for third base; Rhyne and Narleski for shortstop, and Scarritt, Rothrock, Barrett, Cicero and Oliver for the outfield.

We doubt that there will be many changes in that list when the final selection is made. The outfield is certain to be the same. Bill and Winsett, the only other fly chasers, need more experience and five are sure to be kept.

Holman Only Infielder Not Sure of Remaining

All the infielders mentioned with the possible exception of Holman, are sure of their jobs. The young third sacker's chances depend on what he shows in the early season games. So good does he look down here that Wagner is confident he will prove worth keeping.

If he should show the need of more seasoning, however, the infield will be reduced to seven, as Vachall, a ninth candidate, isn't ready yet, and another member added to the pitching staff, probably Durham. The chances of changes in the catching department between now and June 15 are greater than in any other. Charlie Berry is the only receiver who is sure to hang on.

Asby and Connolly Fight for Catching Berth

Heving, due to his experience and heavy hitting, is a good bet, but Asby and Eddie Connolly, two of the best young catchers in the majors, must be kept or released outright this season, having already been farmed out twice, and Wagner is sure to think twice before letting either go. One of them, of course, is bound to stick.

Asby, because of his hitting, has the edge on Connolly, but the latter may yet win out. Then again, both may show so much Heving will be let go.

All the right-handed pitchers named have their jobs cinched

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Golf's Greatest Teacher

Having in mind the circular path taken by your clubhead in its swing, and considering the oblique plane of the SWINGING ACTION COMES FROM THE "BACK OF RIGHT HIP."

swing, we must now go to the top of the back swing in order to see the manner in which the clubhead goes correctly through the ball. In the top position you have turned body and shoulders to the right In initiating the forward swing, you keep the body in that position for just an instant, during which time you start the clubhead downward with hands and arms. Started thus, it will accelerate enormously and rapidly, so that the body is left in back of it and the clubhead goes first. The clubhead continues downward and toward the ball and, if this forward swing is correctly made, it will appear to you that the swinging action comes from the rather back of the right hip-down under, so to speak—and into and across the ball. Plainly, the clubhead swings in from a line well inside the imaginary direction line, then across the ball and out, and straight through. The clubhead action through the ball is directionally across and away from you.

Tiger Sextet Wins Place in Play-off

Boston Tigers battled their way into the Canam playoff series by playing a 3 to 3 tie with the league-leading Providence Reds in overtime at the Garden. The one point which the Boston team picked up by its tie game insured it a place in the championship series regardless of what New Haven accomplishes in its remaining games.

Providence equalled the Canam record of 51 points which Springfield piled up in 1928, and made one of the greatest comebacks of the season in cutting down the three-goal margin which the Tigers opened in the first period. It was the second successive deadlock of the season on the Garden ice between the two teams.

BRUINS PICKED TO WIN SERIES

Oliver ducked around Munro and gathered in Galbraith's pass and whacked it home for goal which gave the Bruins their first victory of the championship series.

Dunc Munroe Was Outstanding Player

The game did not measure up to expectations. The article of hockey was below par. For most of the 100 odd minutes, it was more or less of a shinny match. The Maroons checked the Bruins' offense by charging its defense out at Conney Weiland and close covering by its wings.

Dunc Munroe was the outstanding player. He was a bear on the defense, and carried away most of the offensive honors by his spectacular rushes. Conney Weiland scared the first Bruin goal and completely outshone his greatest N. H. L. rival, Neil Edward.

Although Harry Oliver and Conney Weiland deserved the offensive honors of the Bruins, Captain Lionel Hitchman was a very important cog in the Boston machine He was tireless up in the attacking every Maroon attack to the extent of breaking up rush after rush.

DIGLANE HURT IN MAT BOUT

first aid treatment in his dressing room. he was removed to the City Hospital. It was found he had suffered a severe contusion of the head, a wound on the chin and numerous cuts on his left ear

It was decided to take x-rays today to see if Diglane has suffered a fracture of the skulls.

Sonnenberg was also badly bruised by the fall from the ring, but got the break of landing on top of his opponent.

THE ending of the bout was filled with thrills, Diglane had scored with the first fall of the match in 27m. 55s. A double arm swing had sent the champion to the mat after some furious clashes.

Diglane had a perfect defense against Sonnenberg's flying tackle, while the luckless one was powerless before the Frenchman's headlocks.

When wrestling was resumed Sonnenberg displayed greater caution than he had in the early part of the match. He employed an arm lock a great deal and had his opponent in distress on numerous occasions. When the opportunity presented itself, Sonny cut loose with flying tackles which shook up Diglane

After the 20-minute mark had been passed, Sonnenberg made a verrile spurt. He forced Diglane back toward the ropes and then let fly with his famous tackle.

Diglane had his back against the ropes when the champion hit him The ropes were unable to stop Diglane and he went crashing through them to the press table and then to the floor of Arena. Sonny clung to his opponent's legs and landed on top of him.

POLICE surrounded the fallen wrestlers to keep excited spectators from crowding in on them Sonnenberg finally untangled himself and got back into the ring. He was bruised and badly shaken up.

Referee Sam Stein gave Diglane a reasonable opportunity to get back into action and, when he was unable to go on, counted him out for the second fall, which went to the champion, in 20 min. 21 secs.

Tribe Star at Third

RANDY MOORE HAD VARIED CAREER

By BILL CONNELL

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21—Randy Moore, new third baseman of the Braves, has travelled far in his search for a regular job on a big circuit ball team. This year is his eighth with a league baseball club.

Seven organizations have had the services of the 24-year-old young man who has filled a big gap in the infield of the Tribe this spring.

Bill Connell

Randy was a great high school ball player, so good that the day after he was graduated from secondary school in 1923 he was signed by the Mt. Pleasant, then a member of the East Texas League. Moore went in and played a full game that afternoon. And from that day he has shifted from one club to another nine times.

He finished '23 with Longview and was with that club when the season of 1924 opened. In the middle of the summer he was sent to Dallas, in the Texas League and was just settled down with the boys of that nine when he was shipped back to Longview.

Moore With White Sox in 1925; Sold in 1929

The White Sox bought Randy in 1925, and kept him through the playing season. Moore was only 18 that year, so the pale hose figured seasoning would help him and Randy was farmed out to Waco in 1926. He stayed in that team's lineup until the close of the scheduled of 1927, when the Chi Sox recalled him.

There was no place for Moore on the Windy City team in 1928, however, and the Sox were obliged to sell him outright to Dallas, Texas, before the opening of the 1929 season.

Moore did so well with Dallas playing in the outfield, that the Braves bought him after the windup of last year's slated games.

Randy originally was an infielder, and in high school played at short and second. After he started in work with league teams he was shifted to the outfield. Frequently it was necessary to shift him to the infield and he played second, short and third at various times.

McKechnie Makes Moore Over to Third Baseman

This year, after he came to the Braves advertised as an outfielder many Hub fans figured that it was a mistake on the part of McKechnie to try to make Moore a third baseman. The Braves pilot, who does not make false moves in working his ball players, was perfectly right in placing Moore on the third sack.

The athlete is at home on the hot scenes and his work shows that. Moore fields balls smoothly. It is his wonderful arm, however, which makes him so valuable as a third baseman. So accurate and fast is his throwing that he can afford to be careful and slow when fielding the ball.

Not having to hurry to get the ball away, Moore is able to take his time capturing ground balls, and so makes few mistakes in handling the ball. At bat he has a free, graceful swing with plenty of power back of it. All in all, Randy Moore should have a great career as a major leaguer.

LEADS QUINCY NINE

Capt. Frank Rouillard, above, who will play second base for the newly organized Quincy Twi League team this season.

HOME TALENT FOR QUINCY

Quincy will try the home talent system in the Twi League this year. The team, which has changed hands, will be made up solely of players from the Quincy district. Outside stars will be barred. Last year's team, a championship outfit of imported material, didn't draw.

The new directors figure that the native sons will bring out the fans. There is plenty of athletic talent in the city and its suburbs, and plenty of sporting spirit, too.

The citizens have rallied to the new notion, and are giving the team a send-off next Friday at the South Shore Rollerway on the Wollaston boulevard. It promises to be one of the largest evenings of its kind on the records.

There will be a banquet, a few speeches, a vaudeville show, plus boxing and wrestling matches. Eddie Morris, the golden-tongued Harvard announcer, will be master of ceremonies, and the extensive program will keep things popping until the small, wee hours.

The new homebred Twi team will prove that the village is back of it, before the big squabble.

Stark Again Signs as Green Five Coach

Hanover, N. H., March 21—Harry H. Heneage, supervisor of Dartmouth athletes, announced that Albert Dolly Stark has signed a contract to coach varsity basketball for the next three years. Stark, who is a National League baseball umpire, just completed his second season as varsity leader.

Under his direction the Green quintet finished second in the Eastern Intercollegiate League race of 1928-29 and in the campaign just closed, Dartmouth finished in a tie with Yale for third place.

Swooning Phil Is Home; and Yowling

London, March 21 (INS)—Wearing the chin they love to punch tilted high, Phil Scott returned today from America with a word or two of criticism for "the blasted unfair way in which they do things over there."

Philip came home with the air of a conqueror and very nonchalantly told the boys how he "licked Jack Sharkey so badly there wasn't anything else for the American to do but foul him to save his own face."

The New Gillette Razor

Spend a few pennies today for the greatest shaving improvement

THE old Gillette was a good servant. The New Gillette Blade and Razor (patents pending) is a better one—very much better.

You never need waste your time wiping this razor dry. And there's never any "razor pull" to deprive you of shaving comfort. These are only two of many improvements that have been made.

In tackling the problem of "razor pull," thousands of men were interviewed. Tens of thousands of razors were examined. The evidence all pointed one way. Most razors had been dropped and the corners dented. The dent threw the blade out of alignment. And this caused "razor pull." The smallest dent could do great harm, for your Gillette is a finely precisioned instrument.

Now the trouble is solved. In the New Gillette Razor the four corners have been reinforced to withstand the hardest knocks. The four corners of the new blade are cut out. The blade is not held at its corners at all when cap and guard are screwed together. There's no chance of its being thrown out of alignment even if the razor is dropped.

When you're through shaving with this new razor, there's no wiping necessary. You don't need to take it apart. Because this new blade is specially processed to resist rust, you merely hold razor under hot running water, shake thoroughly...and lay on the shelf.

The old posts are gone, too. They stuck through the blade and so often accidentally caught and dulled the blade edges. Please note, too, how the guard teeth are rounded back farther, to meet the skin more smoothly, more comfortably.

Another great convenience—the ends of the new blade are square, for safer handling with wet fingers. The square ends fit flush with cap and guard and permit closer shaving around the tight little corners of mouth, nose and ears.

Changed and improved as this New Gillette Blade is, it has been designed so it will fit your old razor until you are able to get your New Gillette. The new razor, 24K. gold plated, and in a beautiful case with New Gillette Blade, is only one dollar. The New Gillette Blade in the new green package costs one dollar for ten, or fifty cents for five.

Here's your chance to know how smooth a shave can be—to own a razor that will deliver the same superb shaves year after year in spite of hard knocks and abuse. Make it a point to stop at your Gillette dealer's today.

DAVIS RAPS N. E. FOR IMPORTING RUSSIAN COAL

Philadelphia, March 21 (AP)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who spoke at the Drexel and Upholstery Club, endorsed the chamber of commerce of an eastern city which he said had a public exhibition test installed [illegible] coal.

"One dangerous example of dumping foreign goods into this country," Davis said, occurs in the importing of Russian anthracite coal into New England, where it is undersselling the coal mined in the United States.

Dr. E. J. Herman of Philadelphia, Pa., who used the new Herbal Flaxolyn with such splendid success he now prescribes it to his patients and heartily advises New England men and women to give it a trial.

Watch the Healthy Color Come Back to Your Cheeks; See How the Eyes Sparkle and New Vigor Is Restored, as Pleasant Herbal Flaxolyn Drives Out Constipation, Gives "New Life" to the Liver and Activates the Vital Flow of Gastric Juices

"No living man yet knows ALL the symptoms of constipation," declares the well known Dr. E. J. Herman. "I wonder how many of you realize that dull eyes, yellow complexion, dry hair, coated tongue and even wrinkles and premature old age may be the result of deep-rooted constipation. Constipation is SERIOUS. Today it is taking its toll of millions of men and women throughout the country, causing ill health weariness, lack of energy, poor appearance, and inviting sickness and disease.

"The dangerous part about constipation is that most people don't know how VICIOUS AN AILMENT IT IS. Only we doctors, who are in everyday contact with diseases of all kinds, are aware that constipation is the ROOT of hundreds of bodily ills and pains.

"That is why I rejoice in the discovery of Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn. For years I have been searching for a harmless natural-acting preparation which would prevent the serious effects of constipation. I have found it in the new Flaxolyn and I readily recommend it, secure in the knowledge that it will speed new stamina and strength. Whenever a patient comes to me suffering from sluggish liver, general weakness, mental depression and physical inefficiency, or any sickness that can be traced to toxic constipation poisoning, I enthusiastically recommend Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn."

Many are the warnings of nature that you are suffering from constipation. You need Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn if you are bothered by heartburn, gas, sick headaches, dizzy bilious spells, sleeplessness, jaundiced appearance, liver spots, unpleasant breath. If stomach or bowels don't act just right, if you are a victim of nervousness or painful rheumatic attacks, Flaxolyn should be of great help to you.

ETHLYN GIBSON REVEALS 'LOVE PACT' IN SUIT

Los Angeles, March 21 (AP) A marriage contract signed two years before Ethlyn Gibson, former Follies dancer, was divorced from her first husband, is included in a suit by the dancer against Leon Glaser, wealthy broker, asking $150,000 damages for alleged breach of promise.

The contract was signed by Glaser and Miss Gibson before a notary public November 5, 1926. Miss Gibson was divorced from Bill, West, screen comedian, in 1928.

In the contract, worded in legal phrases, Glaser is alleged to have promised to "love, worship, honor, respect, idolize forever Ethlyn Gibson, to the end of eternity."

It stated that Miss Gibson "is so situated as to make the marriage of both parties impossible," but after obtaining the divorce, to be sought by Miss Gibson, Glaser "does hereby agree to love, honor and marry her immediately." As it has been his wish since meeting and Ethlyn Gibson, as Leon Glaser loves and worships Ethlyn Gibson as his wife."

Miss Gibson declared in spite of these agreement Glaser married Betty Cohen, daughter of A. B. Coren, wealthy diamond merchant in December, 1928.

DOUBT PLOT TO BURN GIRL

Fairfield, Tex., March 21 (AP) Texas Rangers today joined with county officers in an attempt to solve an alleged attempt to murder Miss Wilma Jones 23, by burning the girl in her hotel room, while G. S. Moore, Oakwood, Tex., business man, charged with the assault, continued to reiterate his innocence.

Plainly incredulous of the girl's story of being tied on her bed by an unidentified man, who then set fire to the mattress, two Texas Rangers and Sheriff J. H. Rubinks questioned Miss Jones, who was un-

New York, March 21 (AP) Michael J. Shanley, 63, one of six brothers whose name for a generation was synonymous with good food, died suddenly today of a cerebral hemorrhage.

The six Shanley brothers came from Ireland as youths. In 1893 Michael and Thomas J. started a restaurant at Sixth ave. and 23d st. It was such a success that with their brothers they opened a chain of restaurants which became famous for good, plain food.

Majestic Dealers Dine and Dance

Members of the family of Majestic Distributors, Inc., distributors of the products of the Grigsby-Grunow Co. of Chicago, were the guests of the parent company at a dinner in the Empire Room of the Hotel Kenmore and later danced to the strains of music furnished by Paul Specht and his New England Majestic orchestra.

More than 150 attended. Salesmen brought their wives and the girls of the office staff brought their friends. After an enjoyable dinner the party was continued until after midnight.

Kills Mother and Wounds Self; Dying

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 21 (AP) —Mrs. John Detmer is dead and her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Cehun, 32, is in Mercy Hospital here at the point of death as the result of a murder and attempted suicide in the Detmer home today.

Police said the daughter shot her mother and then jumped from a second story window after wounding herself. Hospital authorities said the daughter's back was broken.

Antique a Day No. 52

An old New England commode, with a Boston history attached to it, is shown today. Commodes of this type usually went in pairs. This one shows very strong French influence, with a suggestion of the Adam Brothers. Authentic Adam furniture was rare in America during the lifetime of the famous family, due to the disturbance of impeding and actual warfare.

The commode shown here dates from 1760 and is the property of Miss Alice L. Hirtle of 91 Converse st., Malden. Its original painting, somewhat obscured by time, is still to be seen. The painted figures on the oval front, and the floral designs along the moldings are very delicately and expertly executed.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique.

30 PLANES TO TOUR N. E. CITIES

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Eighteen communities will be visited during the New England Air Tour, scheduled to start at Springfield May 27, with Boston to be visited by all 30 planes on the second day of the tour. The New England Council is sponsoring the tour.

Realizing that it would be impossible for all the ships to make every stop, the technical committee in charge revised the itinerary and split the ships up into three groups of 10 each.

At least double the number of stop-cities will be flown over by either a single group or the entire flight.

In order to promote safety during the tour, a survey ship, carrying Clarence M. Knox, commissioner of aviation of Connecticut and chairman of the technical committee, will fly over the route.

The tour will end at Bowles Airport, Springfield, May 30 in time for the plane to join in three day celebration of the dedication of the new $1,000,000 airport.

As announced today by the New England Council, stops during the tour are as follows: May 27, Greenfield, Keene, N. H., Springfield, Vt., White River Junction Vt., Barre, Vt., Newport, Vt., Concord, N. H. Wednesday, May 28 Augusta, Me., Bangor, Me., Rockland, Me., Portland, Me., Manchester, N. H., Fitchburg, Mass., Worcester, Mass., Boston, New Bedford, Thursday, May 29; Providence-Pawtucket, What Cheer Airport, Bridgeport, Conn., Hartford, Friday, May 30; Springfield, Mass., Bowles Airport dedication.

BOMB PLOT ON CAPONE HOME FAILS TO LOCATE AL

Miami, Fla., March 21 (AP) Six men arrested in a liquor raid on the Palm Island estate of Alphonse Capone, Chicago racketeer, and subsequently released on cash appearance bonds, today sought writs of habeas corpus.

Two gave their names as John and Albert Capone. Authorities say they were brothers of the gangster.

John Capone and Frankie Newton posted $500 each to answer charges of illegal possession of liquor. Albert Capone and James Vincent, Louis Cowen and L. J. Brennan furnished $250 each on vagrancy charges.

The raid, based on the affidavits of sheriff's deputies, that they saw liquor in the house recently in making a search for "Crane Neck" Nugent, wanted in Ohio on murder charges, resulted in the seizure, officers said, of 30 sacks and three bottles of liquor and a quantity of champagne.

Authorities said they found no trace of Alphonse Capone.

Chicago Coal Man Is Shot to Death

Chicago, March 21 (AP)—Cicero Bascelli, a coal dealer, was found shot to death in a West Side street. Police believed he was either killed by extortionists or because of labor troubles. Bascelli, they said, employed union teamsters in his coal business, but also drove one of his own wagons.

Dentist Asks Divorce

Charging his wife, Marion A. Sandiford, now of New York, with desertion Dr. Chester L. Sandiford, a dentist of Goden st., Belmont, has brought suit for divorce in Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge.

CHICAGO COUSINS GET COUGHS WHILE AT PLAY

Andrew Zeos of 3722 Ward St., Chicago, and his cousin, Jack Horth, "pal around" together. And they aren't the sort of boys who want to suspend outdoor play even during a Chicago winter. So it isn't strange that once in a while they get laid up with coughs and colds. As Mr. Zeos himself says, "My son, Andrew, gets the usual bad-weather coughs nice all boys do. He's out in all sorts of weather, and we do have all kinds here in Chicago. Some time ago he had a mighty bad cough that stuck to him till I started giving him REM. I'd seen it advertised, and it helped him fine. My nephew, Jack Horth, has also used it too, and with good results, for his mother gives him REM when ever he gets a cough. It's certainly a good cough remedy." Thousands of other delighted users agree with Mr. Zeos.

REM's exclusive formula explains its splendid results. Economical, too!

Daily Health Hint for Readers

A DAILY and vigorous brushing of the hair is stimulating to the scalp and removes dandruff or scaly material that may accumulate. Loose and dead hair is also got rid of in this way. A shampoo cleans the hair, but does not give the same friction as a good brushing.

This Day in History

THE first great battle of the World War in which U. S. troops took part as battle units was begun March 21, 1918. It was known as the battle of Picardy. American troops had comparatively little training, but opened the eyes of the allies by their steadiness under fire.

CONSERVE BEAUTY AND GRACE OF THE HANDS

Roughened Cuticle Mars Their Appearance

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON
World Famous Beautician

THE cuticle surrounding the finger nails must be kept fine in texture and smooth in appearance if the full beauty possibilities of the hands are to be reaped.

Heavy, coarse cuticle ruins the appearance of otherwise lovely hands, and such a condition can be avoided with a little thought and care.

I've often mentioned the value to be derived by the daily use of a cuticle salve or ointment, and once again I want to stress the importance of this.

Josephine Huddleston

Nothing so refines the cuticle around the nails as the daily use of an oil or finishing cream made especially for this purpose. The cuticle is apt to dry out, and that is what causes it to become rough and ragged. By keeping the cuticle well oiled or nourished such beauty troubles are eliminated.

It is cutting and not the drying out of the cuticle that causes the cuticle to become thick, and so the manicure scissors should be used only for snipping off those ragged bits of skin that simply have to be removed. Even coarse cuticle can be softened again if you will stop cutting it and use cuticle salve or ointment at least once each day.

Next in importance to the beauty of the cuticle, with the exception of immaculate cleanliness, of course, is the shape of the nails. Far too many girls and women shape their nails to meet the requirements of a passing fad, instead of gaining last beauty by always shaping their nails in the style that best suits the contour of the hands.

The general rules governing the shaping of the nails are so simple that any woman can adapt them to her own hands and thus gain the ultimate in hand loveliness.

Most women know whether their hands are long and narrow, short and blunt, whether the fingers taper or are of the square end type. Of course, there are all sorts of degrees of longness and shortness but this, too, can be met.

Take the long slender hand. Sharply pointed nails would make the hands appear so much longer that all the base beauty of such contours would be lost. But a modified point to the nails, which should just barely extend over the ends of the fingers, gives a graceful ending to the fingers.

If the nails are short and round they should be allowed to grow a little longer than the average nail and be shaped into a definite point but one that is not sharp.

When short, chubby fingers are finished off with a square nail. The sides of the nails should be filed down a little. Then, when a slightly pointed shape is given to the ends of the nails they immediately become longer and more slender in appearance.

The long, wide type of nail should be filed down as much as possible at the sides and although the ends of the nails should be pointed they must not extend over the ends of the fingers.

The average hand has an average nail, neither too wide nor too long, and for this type of hand the rounded oval is best. The sides of the nails should be filed a little and then brought to a point which should be rounded off into an oval shape. This adds grace and beauty to the average hand as no other style of filing does and has the added advantage of being less apt to break off than the more definitely pointed nails.

THIS is the time of year that one goes forth too warm and comes back rigid with cold. Or too cold going forth, and coming back with coal gaily thrown back, freshest too warm and a yearning for vacation and a bunch of violets with the last 35 cents in the purse.

The time of year when we can't tell those two pretty sisters, though they are, oh, so different looking and mannered, one from the other.

Spring, in bare white arms bracelet with flowers, seems to hold close to her green-clad breast her sister, who is getting ready to fly north. And the sister, in furs and icy jewels, loath to leave her, hugs spring fast and lingers in her arms. Arms wound about necks, cheek to cheek, one carnation, the other appleyed, laughing mingling with laugh, the puzzled traveler can't tell one from the other.

"Is it spring today, or winter? Soft airs in the morning, and polar breaths at night. Winter is no wound in the arms of spring, and the other way around, that I don't know whether to don the old fur rug coat or get out the straw chapeau!"

Don't Neglect First Teeth

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health.

MUCH interest is being shown in the care of children's teeth both by the dental profession and the medical profession. Happily public education has led many people to accomplish what seems like an almost impossible task for any other means. Parents are encouraged to bring their children to the dental clinics.

The need for care of a child's first teeth is a matter which I mentioned all too frequently. Most parents believe that it is a natural thing for the first teeth to come out and that on this account they require no care. This is not true. If the first teeth are not taken care of, the second teeth come in with lessened vitality.

Give your child a chance to have perfect teeth. Take him to the dentist or clinic often enough to keep decay under control. Once every six months is not too often.

Nutrition has a place of great importance in the matter of the teeth. The diet of the growing child should be carefully watched. His rapid growth calls for an abundance of good protein foods, and the minerals, which are bone and teeth-forming factors. They must have the necessary vitamins to promote growth and energy.

Milk is an essential for every child, at least a quart every day. If a child gets tired of drinking milk, change may be had by giving him the amount of milk in the form of custards, creamed soups, in puddings and other ways.

Even the youngest child should have an abundance of fruit juices, especially orange juice and tomato juice, besides milk in the diet. The growing child needs an abundance of the fresh fruits and vegetables, especially the leafy vegetables and tomatoes. He should be given liberal amounts of them, lettuce, spinach, cauliflower, cabbage.

Eggs are an excellent protein food. They possess easily digested fats, iron and the unknown, especially the "antirachitic" factors. Soft boiled or poached or shirred eggs are better than fried eggs.

Cereals served with milk form another excellent protein food. Oatmeal rolled oats, wheatena and shredded wheat are all good cereals.

Children should be taught to keep the teeth clean. They should be brushed night and morning, with a stiff brush, with or without dentifrice.

Food should not be allowed to collect between the teeth. These spaces are a breeding place for all sorts of germs. For it must be regarded that the moist mouth is a place where germs always lurk. Many persons use an antiseptic mouth wash these days. It is a safe habit.

Lovejoy -:- Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER 60

HIS voice spun magic for Lovejoy. Mexico City—San Francisco Hawaii—

"I've always longed to travel everywhere," she said dreamily, "and I've always longed for a whopping big diamond like this. Steve you make every wish of mine come true! Do you know it?"

She put her arms around his neck and kissed him for "Thank you."

It was nine o'clock when they got back to the house in Santa Barbara. There were lights in it and the sound of music. In the stone flagged courtyard stood a big closed car.

"Sheila evidently has some guests, what?" Steve asked as they got out of his car.

Before they stepped into the house, their arms tight around each other, and their hearts beating fast they kissed each other.

"I'm going straight to bed," Lovejoy whispered. "I'm all tired and dusty, and I don't want to meet Sheila's friends tonight. I can put a long-distance call in for Aunt Em from my room, can't I?"

On the hall table lay a telegram in its yellow envelope.

"There's a wire on the hall table for you, Lovejoy!" she heard Sheila call as she picked it up. "It came early this morning."

Afterward it always seemed to Lovejoy that she knew what was in that telegram before she read it.

"Aunt Em's probably wiring to let me know that the baby is all right—because I couldn't reach her by telephone last night," she said to Steve as she tore open the yellow envelope.

But her lips were dry and stiff as she spoke, and there was a lump of fear and terror in her throat. She unfolded the telegram and read it:

"Tommy very sick; cholera infantum; Norrie says to come home at once. Aunt Em."

Tommy very sick—

Everything went black before her eyes.

The next thing she knew she was lying on the bed in the big double bedroom.

Then she opened her eyes and found Steve's eyes fixed on her... What had just happened came back to her.

In a moment she was alert. She sat up on the bed, her eyes sweeping the room in search of the telegram.

"What time did that thing come, Steve?" she asked. "Sheila said it came some time this morning, but I didn't see? Oh, if I'd only been here then!"

She gave a cry, like a child's whimper as Steve leaned forward and took her in his arms.

"Now, you mustn't cry, Lovejoy," he said, smoothing her hair back from her face with tender hands. "This is the time to keep a stiff upper lip. Sheila says there is a train from Los Angeles early tomorrow morning—and she's trying to get your aunt on the telephone right now. I'm sure everything must be all right by this time or she would have wired again."

Lovejoy shook her head. "She probably thinks I'm on the train this minute," she said, her voice breaking on a dry sob.

She closed her eyes. "Steve, I had a feeling before I left my baby that something like this would happen. I knew that I shouldn't have left him."

Suddenly she tore herself out of his arms and threw herself across the bed in an agony of tears. "What are all the divorces in the world to me if I lose my baby?" she cried, her face buried in the soft pillows. "I'll never be happy again if anything happens to my baby. Oh, if you had any sense you'd know that!"

She pushed him violently away from her when he bent over her. "Just go and tell the long-distance operator to get Aunt Em on the telephone—if you want to do something to help me!" she wailed. "And see if there isn't a train I can get tonight! I can't stay here, doing nothing while my baby's dying—"

She was beside herself, almost She lay, sobbing, across the bed while Steve and Sheila talked to Aunt Em on the telephone.

It was Sheila who came back to her with the news.

"We just talked to your aunt, Lovejoy," she said quietly, sitting down upon the edge of the tumbled bed.

Lovejoy looked up at her with swollen red-rimmed eyes.

"There's no doubt that the baby is awfully sick." She put her arm in its thin chiffon sleeve, around Lovejoy's shaking shoulders, stroking them. "But babies are very little things. They can be very, very sick—and a few hours later they can be perfectly well."

Girl Unafraid a Serial

Nothing could heat the quaintness of Ah-Ling's pidgin English as she handled the small Canton cups of tea or passed the cigarettes and pastel-colored matches to the entranced guests.

In the middle of the afternoon Cecile Parker drifted in with a group of women.

Ardeth, from beneath her lashes, watched her leaning languidly back against the silk cushions of the couch.

Everything about Cecile spoke of exquisite care. She was almost defiantly artificial. Her hair was long and bleached to a fine, silky yellow of hay. She wore it shadow-waved and parted in the middle so that it clasped her pale oval face in two snug wings. Her lips were tinted an astonishing orange and when she spoke, sharp glistening little teeth shone between them in startling whiteness.

Her nails were filed to tapering ovals, high-polished and tinted faint mauve.

Yet, what would have been ridiculous in another, was somehow fascinating in Cecile. Even the cultivated drawl of her speech was not unattractive.

Keenly alert, Ardeth heard her speaking in a stout matron seated on the couch beside her.

"—I was ready to go home when Mary died, last night, but Ken insisted on driving downtown and getting something to eat."

No one noticed the girl across the room who went a painful white at the words. The idle remark struck in Ardeth's heart like a barb. Ken . . . He had tired of her—but not, apparently of Cecile! Her stony eyes looked back at her from the mirror she faced. Well —what did she care! What was Ken Gleason to her . . she whispered.

Jeanette drifted out with the last wave of feminity, leaving Ardeth and Ah Ling to wrestle with the soiled cups and overflowing ashtrays.

It was late when the weary girl pulled on her hat and coat and stepped out into the foggy twilight.

With her usual perversity, San Francisco had chosen this spring night to be cold and windy. The shops had a deserted air. The streets were nearly empty at this hour.

Something forlorn about the flowerstand at the corner blowing in the wind. Something forlorn too, about the man who stood beside it, coat collar turned up against the evening chill.

At the sound of the shop door closing he turned and Ardeth's heart leaped.

MAN'S COLOR COMPLEX

"THERE is something about BLUE that brings out the best in a man," says Marion Davies, the blonde screen star.

Of course. Blue is the color of the heavens, and of the eyes of the angels, and of the sashes worn by the virtuous, persecuted heroines in all the mid-Victorian novels. Besides, it is the antithesis of PINK which is somehow, confused in a man's mind with all feminine weakness and wickedness.

There is something disarming and appealing about blue; something that invests a girl with that irresistible "come-and-protect-me" charm which awakens all a man's chivalry, and inspires him to defend her—even when there's nothing to defend her against.

* * *

A BLONDE in green may look smart, dashing cool and adult; but there is a sophistication and a daring about green that makes the most guileless young thing look vampish to the suspicious masculine eye.

Lavender and violet are even more provocative. They are the symbol of Spring in her most wistful and intoxicating moods. They may not suggest a purple past, but they somehow hint at an orchid future or, at the least at a few mauve moments. They are the incarnation of sophistication.

There is something about a girl in violet, especially in Spring, that positively frightens a man. He sees himself helplessly falling before her allurement, and going down for the third time. Perhaps even proposing marriage!

* * *

But BLUE lends her an aura of innocence and naivete, which stills all his alarms, and brings to life all his boyish illusions and noble protective instincts. He simply cannot think of a girl in delicate baby-blue as "dangerous."

Let the same girl appear in a rose-pink frock or a pale-pink tea-gown, and immediately she ceases to be a beautiful inspiration and becomes a coalesce.

PINK is to a man, what scarlet is to a bull. It makes him wild.

The adventuress in the play always does her vamping or her murdering in a rose colored boudoir or a pink satin dressing room—never in a blue-and-white kitchen.

No lady in a novel ever wore the primrose way without a background of rose-colored lights. Yet how is waitress and mother, if it has to be adulterated with rose and called "rose beige" in order to be subtly sinful.

BUT BLUE is the stop signal which halts a man, even at a distance of six inches from your lips. It has that shape-message appeal. If blue flags were red flags, were used at dangerous railroad crossings there would be fewer motor accidents.

* * *

Oh yes if there's anything sacred to the symbology of sentiment in a man's nature, there is no doubt that baby-blue will bring it out! You'd be surprised to know how much men are affected by colors.

Use One Hand for Cup

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

1. Will you please tell me the correct way to drink bouillon from a cup with two handles?

2. Please also tell me how to drink hot malted milk which is sometimes served in a tall glass and holder, the same as a soda, with a long spoon and about six straws which melt right away?

3. Should the straws be taken out as they melt, although there is nothing to lay them on but the bare table?

4. Can I drink the rest of the milk, or must I sip it with the spoon or straws?

5. When jam is served in a footed dish, should a spoon or a butter spreader be used to spread the jam on the biscuit or toast?

Brighton. — SADIE.

1. Sup the first few mouthfuls with the bouillon spoon, to test the heat of the bouillon; then with the right hand, lift the bouillon cup with one handle, as you would a teacup, and drink the soup as you would tea.

2. I suggest that you use the spoon, and disregard the straws.

3. Wouldn't it be just as convenient to remove the straws before you begin to drink the malted milk? Or ask the attendant not to put them in the glass.

4. Drink it.

5. The butter spreader.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

Love May Develop

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

To make a long story short, I have found a man who wants to be a friend at all times in the truest sense of the word. We take in all the things that the average young people do, but with the sole intention of enjoying each other's company. He wants me to be of the type that makes it possible for me to help him often and this I do to the best of my ability. For a while we did kiss each other good night, but when he asked if it was necessary for our friendship, I answered, No.

I'll admit that at first I felt a bit of regret, but more and more it seems to me that it was best. For the friend I stopped doing several things; among them smoking. I know of no other human being for whom I would do this, and I feel that this type of man I wish more girls could know, sensible, straightforward, earnest and honest—an honest-to-goodness pal.

J.

THIS letter almost answers itself.

These young people seem to be so happy in the type of friendship they have found. And if they should happen to fall in love with each other later, that would only be following the mile-posts to which friendship often points the way.

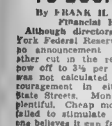
MONEY RATES FAVORABLE TO BUSINESS

By FRANK H. MELDON
Financial Editor

Although directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank made no announcement regarding another cut in the rediscount rate, now off to 3½ per cent, the action was not calculated to cause discouragement in either Wall or State Streets. Money is low and plentiful. Cheap money never yet failed to stimulate business. No one believes it can fail in 1930. We find State Street sentiment very cheerful.

• • •

..Vice President William J. Fortune of the National Shawmut



William J. Fortune

Bank is quoted in our New England diversity of industries is placing this section in a stronger position than it has ever before occupied. We think his summary of New England advantages worth repeating. Mr. Fortune says "we have here today a great degree of capita wealth than any other section of the country, savings deposits richer in terms of deposits and individual workers a credit system stronger than any section of the country, a record of 300 years of managerial ability, skilled workmanship, and fair dealing with the people who capitalize the industries of New England, and a virile youth to meet the future."

It used to be freely stated that chain stores never failed, provided the number of units in the chain was two or more. Recently, however, a New England "chain" went to the wall, but it is generally held that it would probably be able to pay in full eventually. Now a New York drug chain collapses, and the explanation is that stock sales failed to keep pace with the expansion program.

• • •

Finally a good deal of chain store expansion to date has been due to the ability of stock sales to keep pace with expansion. And that is true of other lines of industry,—many of them. It drives home the lesson that Wall and State Streets serve purposes more than merely useful.

Stock marketwise the aviation industry is proceeding according to the schedule generally accepted in Wall and State Streets. The speeded production of airplanes made in 1929 is holding back the "offending" companies from paying dividends or dividends where these have existed. The merger trend is marked, as it was in the case of the motor automobiles and radio industries.

Stabilization of silver prices is extremely difficult, according to an article appearing in the current issue of "Dividends," a monthly publication of Kidder, Peabody & Co.

It is stated that although small producers of silver have already put down and the larger mines are making strenuous effort at curtailment, much silver production occurs as a byproduct in the refining of other non-ferrous metals. This makes production control difficult.

The season is close at hand when the filling stations of New England will again be operating at 100 per cent capacity. This will furnish employment for thousands now idle. One of the biggest employment problems is taking care of the seasonally employed. It looks as if many would be compelled to have one calling in the automobile tourist season and another when ice and cold rule.

• • •

We have mentioned before that studies indicate a dollar bill is handled at a filling station once in every seven times it changes hands. Filling station handling of dollar bills is said to have shortened the life of this currency, necessitating the printing of the new money. And now the new money is said to withstand filling station handling even less well than the old.

Wiggin's Recipe For Achieving True Success

Head of World's Foremost Bank Called "Man of Million Friends"

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, March 21—What manner of man has developed the largest bank the world has ever seen? The Chrysler Building, the highest in the world, is not more essentially the handiwork of Walter P. Chrysler than the Chase National Bank is the handiwork of Albert H. Wiggin.

B. C. Forbes

At Wiggin has outstanding characteristics: his ability as a banker and his ability to make friends.

Time was when Mr. Wiggin, now 62, did not have the ambition to build up the most gigantic financial institution in all history. He decided some years ago to take life more easy and to devote more time to social and society affairs. Even a Boston blueblood as president, Mr. Wiggin became chairman and loosened his hold on the reins.

But that didn't turn out altogether happily. Since then the Chase has had a succession of presidents, but Mr. Wiggin has been the real dynamo generating the bank's energy. And I am quite sure he has since found more real satisfaction than he did when he tried to become accustomed to leisure—this notwithstanding that he is a crack golfer.

I once had a heart-to-heart talk with Mr. Wiggin, sometimes called "the banker with a million friends," on the subject of friends and on getting on in the world.

"Making friends is often called the passport to success," I started.

"Character—personality—is the passport to success, not friends," he cut in. "Friends made for an end don't last till the end. Any friendship that has to be bought, not necessarily in dollars, but by fawning or flattering or pandering or entertaining, is not worth the price; it is not worth having. Smiles don't win the best kind of friendships; it's what is behind the smiles—personality, ability. Friendships inspired by your pocketbook are not friendships; they are, as far as you are concerned, frauds, for they are not genuine, they are not true-blue, they are not sincere."

"But isn't it true that when you or any other head of a great organization want to pick a man for a highly responsible position you don't pick a stranger, but someone who is either a friend of yours or a friend of your friends?" I asked.

"That is true, and then again it is not true. It is true that big jobs are usually filled in the can-do way: but the man who is selected is not selected because he is a friend, but because he can deliver the goods. Friends don't make a man, but if a man has the right qualities, the right personality, the right caliber, he cannot help making friends; they just feel drawn to him. The thing to do is to cultivate and develop qualities and sibilities that increase your own usefulness. Then the friendship part will take care of itself.

"The man's a rotter who starts out to make friends for what he can get in it for him. He's also a fool, for people will soon get on to his curves."

The son of a New England preacher, Mr. Wiggin's first connection with banking was as errand and office boy during school vacations. The family income not permitting of a college education, he became a bank clerk. Before he was 23 he was a federal bank examiner. At 28 he was elected a Boston bank officer, later became vice-president of a larger institution, was brought into touch with New York bankers, impressed them, and was invited to New York at 41 as president of the famous old National Park Bank, later to be absorbed by Wiggin into his own Chase Bank.

In New York Wiggin quickly developed into something bigger and broader than a commercial banker. He blossomed out as a financier, a man of vision, of judgment, of creative ability.

During the terrific 1907 panic, both the late J. P. Morgan and George F. Baker sized up Wiggin's financial statesmanship. He was only 43 when made president of the Chase Bank, which he had enormously developed during half a dozen years as vice-president. The most influential directorates in the country soon opened their doors to him. He became a power in many fields.

Never did he make a greater impression in the inner circles of high finance than last November when he joined the Morgan-sponsored consortium, as it was called, to combat the grave financial storm which then raged.

Wiggin's philosophy may be epitomized in this statement: "Personality and the ability to make friends are not superficial matters. They are not simply a question of what goes by the name of 'manners.' They are deeper things. They have their roots in the very heart of a man. They are the man."

Wiggin has proved himself a man of men.

EDISON GAINS $2.50 A SHARE IN BOSTON

Edison gained over 2 points to a new high in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. New England Telephone was at a new high on the move and American Telephone was at a peak price for the year selling well over 246.

Old Colony added 2. United Fruit dropped almost 4 and Torrington was down 1. New Haven gained over a point and Quincy was up 1½. Kreuger & Toll, Utilities Equity preferred and New England Telephone rights were all at new top marks.

Continental Securities agged 2 and Gillette was 6 new low. Gains of a point or more were shown by the following issues: Andrends, St. Mary's, Pan-Continental, Hathaway preferred, Employers' Group, First National Stores, Brown & d'Cko. preferred and Boston & Albany.

Local quick call rate was today advanced from 3 per cent to 3½ per cent.

An offering of bonds by Boston & Maine railroad under its first mortgage dated Dec. 1, 1919, will be made the first of next week.

Boston & Maine stockholders at the annual meeting April 10 are called upon to vote upon the proposal to issue bonds to provide for additions and improvements, to reimburse the treasury for such expenditures and to provide for refunding of maturities or reimburse the treasury for obligations paid off. Maturities taken care of up to Jan. 1, 1930, representing in many cases small amounts of various issues of constituent companies which were not extended under the terms of the reorganization, aggregate $2,813,000. There are also maturities between Nov. 1, 1930, and Jan. 1, 1934, aggregating $27,440,973.

The decision to finance at this time has undoubtedly been influenced by the current favorable bond market and active demand for investment issues. The new issue will be sold subject to approval of stockholders, but Boston & Maine will seek to provide for only a portion of its requirements at this time.

CURB MARKET OILS ACTIVE

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, March 21 (AP)—Professional operations for the advance were pressed forward with vigor in today's Curb market, but a firming up in the call money market prompted heavy profit taking which turned the course of prices irregular. Several of the industrials and oils were bid up rapidly.

The Petroleum group was featured by strength of the standards, Standard of Ohio jumping four points to a new high, and Humble Oil and Standard of Kansas sold up a point or so, the latter to new high ground. Indian Territory was firm, but Cities Service eased.

American Chain was a feature of the industrials. Sponsors of this stock point out that current earnings are running considerably ahead of this period a year ago. The shares rose about 3 points to a new high at 60, but encountered considerable profit-taking at the top.

The Deere issues were firm spots, the old stock jumping 20 points to a new top at 665. American Cyanamid was strong in the early trading, but soon sold off in profit-taking on its recent rise. Babcock and Wilcox was a soft spot, dropping 5 points. In the Chain stores, Peoples Drug shot up 10 points.

Utility shares encountered considerable selling, and moved in divergent trends. American Gas mounted into new high ground, only to react rather sharply. Electric Bond & Share sold up a couple of points, then turned downward.

Among the less active issues American Traction shot up more than 8 points to a new 1930 top. Brazilian Traction, in which Canadian interests are understood to be active, sold up moderately into new high territory.

United Gas issues encountered further profit-taking, but it was well absorbed.

Quotations Firm in Cotton Market

New York, March 21 (INS)—Cotton futures today reflected the steadiness at Liverpool, with prices slightly higher than the previous close. May was at 15.72, up 14; July was at 15.77, up 14, and October at 15.85, up 6.

BOND MARKET BUYING AGAIN AT BRISK PACE

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, March 21 (AP)—Tendencies toward firmer money resulted in a less avid demand for bonds today, although the pace of the market was still brisk and well above the average for the past year.

Small fractional losses scattered through the list in the early trading reflected the effect on inquiry of the 3 per cent call money renewal rate and the consequent boost in the rate to 4. There was also a little profit taking in speculative holdings which had profited to a considerable extent by the phenomenal rise of the current week.

However, plenty of money was still seeking employment in bonds and offerings were well taken. Investment rails and utilities held firm, but some of the low priced industrials met with selling. Feature of the day was the strength of American Telephone convertible 4½s, which touched 112 for a new high. The company's debenture 5 of 1965 was very active just under its high. Pacific Telephone first 6s, which had been rather quiet, caught up with bonds of the company's group by rising more than a point to 103.

The active rails included Wabash 5s, Western Pacific 5s, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, Canadian Pacific 4s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, Hudson & Manhattan adjustment 5s and Erie 5s, some of which had a little difficulty in holding their ground.

Wheeling Steel 4½s, very active around 93, were in new high ground for the year. Armour Real Estate 4½s sold off 1¾ on small sales. Oil company bonds were firm, Texas Corp. Convertible 5s rising a point to the new high of 106. Shubert Theatres 6s tumbled 2 points.

Changes in the foreign list ruled small during the earlier dealings, but there was a upward movement in the stronger issues. Belgium 7s and French 7½s each rose half a point. Brazil 6½s closed more than 1. Chile 6s turned heavy.

Quotations on liberties and treasuries showed some irregularity and most of the listings were quiet at small fluctuations either way.

The general strength of the current market brought out a large crop of new offerings.

ORDERS REACH BEST MARK

Chicago, March 21 — Unfilled orders of Utah Corporation of America are at the highest peak in the company's history, W. H. Schmidt, president, and general manager, stated today. Every division of the company is active and on a full-time schedule, he added.

"The number of unfilled orders now on books are unprecedented since the company's inception," said Mr. Schmidt. "Four new accounts of considerable size have recently been procured and shipments on orders for these will begin shortly."

Plenty for Education

Not a Dollar for Waste, However

THE commotion stirred by Frank A. Goodwin, Chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, in directing attention to what he believes is waste in schoolhouse construction in Boston, calls for the coldest inquiry into the facts in the case. There should be no heat nor feeling, nor yet politics in the investigation which is asked.

Mayor Curley has very wisely proposed a $15,000,000 school building plan over a period of years. There is no doubt but that the money is needed for school construction. It should be wisely spent. But just as the Legislature is about to consider the plan Chairman Goodwin holds up a warning finger and asks an inquiry. The new method of handling schoolhouse construction has barely started under Mr. Louis K. Rourke when this present controversy arises.

Mr. Goodwin in a letter to Mayor Curley disclaims any intent to reflect on the School Committee. He says:

"The Finance Commission believes that the new organization structurally is better suited to carry on the work of school repair and construction than the old. The Commission believes, however, after examination of all the facts on the record, that the Board of Apportionment within the School Committee is responsible in large part, for waste and inefficiency in schoolhouse construction costs.

"The commission does not intend that this statement shall be taken as a reflection on the School Committee itself.

"The reorganization of the Schoolhouse Commission will go far to save the taxpayers' money; but the situation within the School Committee remains the same, and something should be done to remedy it. This is particularly so in view of the proposed program calling for tremendous sums of money for schoolhouse purposes now before you for consideration.

". . . If something is not done before these proposed sums are expended, extravagance and waste will continue, resulting in the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the citizens."

That the School Committee meets Commissioner Goodwin half way is apparent from its declaration through Chairman Joseph J. Hurley that the School Committee is unanimous for an inquiry by the Finance Commission.

Read what he says:

"The School Committee welcomes the Finance Commission's declared intention of investigating school expenditures. The criticisms made by the Finance Commission have been leveled not at the integrity of the members of the Board of Apportionment, but at their judgment. The public should reserve its decision until the report of the Finance Commission has been acted upon by the School Committee."

Boston citizens interested in getting a dollar's worth for a dollar in their schools, not only in the construction of the buildings themselves but in the kind of education that is furnished in them, should follow this inquiry. They give freely the high dollar for real education but not one cent for waste.

$300,000 Needed

Sounds Big, But Only a Trifle to Uncle Sam.

THE Boston Evening American very properly feels a particular interest in the work that has already been done to restore the frigate Constitution to its rightful place on the seas. It was through the Boston Evening American and the Hearst newspapers that school children and others raised some $400,000 for the reconstruction of "Old Ironsides." And now more money is needed, the sum being $300,000. Uncle Sam's pocketbook, generously opened for purposes not so worthy as this, should open wide indeed for the cash to complete this great patriotic work.

It pleases us to record that Representative French of Idaho is most active in providing this money urged by our own Congressman John W. McCormack. As chairman of the naval appropriations sub-committee of the lower House of Congress, Representative French should push the work of providing this money for the Navy Department, in charge of the work of the complete restoration of this historical old vessel.

Now afloat for the first time in years at the Boston Navy Yard, let us hope that soon we shall see Old Ironsides proudly decked in all the trappings rightfully hers.

Rock of Ages

By NELSON HARDING

Like a lofty promontory,
As a granite cliff arising,
Towering above the breakers
Lashed to fury by a tempest.

Stands the ancient faith of mankind,
Stands the rugged rock of ages
Proof against destructive forces
Hurled upon its firm foundations.

In Other Words

By NELSON HARDING

PENNSYLVANIA prison authorities disappointed at Chicago "welcoming committee" when they declined to put Al Capone "on the spot."

BIG telescope used to locate the most distant planet must be the one employed to find that $7.38 error in our 1928 Income Tax return.

SUPER-TELESCOPE'S real test will come when it is called upon to discover the whereabouts of Mr. Capone.

SCIENCE reveals that our earth really is billions of miles from the center of things. Only a hick planet, after all.

WE thought our orbit round the sun was the Great White Way, but it turns out to be only a celestial Main street.

IF our scientist, Professor Leo Heatley, could get a daytime squint through that telescope we'll bet he'd announce the discovery of a pair of sun spats and claim them as his missing ones.

Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

WHO would relinquish any dream
For truth, as long as fancies seem
So freighted always with life's best;
With things desired, not possessed?

The dreams of youth paint days-to-be
With every blest felicity.
They showed a fairer world than this,
No grief or care to mar its bliss.

The dreams of age are lovely things,
An iridescence on their wings
Brings back again the radiant glow
Of dawn, of hope, of long ago!

Too rare, perhaps, for mortal touch,
Yet dreams have blessed the dreamers much.
Because, in time, men shape their lives
Nearer the dream for which each strives!

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells

THIS tilting is due to movements of the earth's crust, such as its shrinkage and consequent bending and folding during periods of cooling. Over all of midland and southeastern England the tilting is usually slight but definite.

This was very favorable to William Smith, the British pioneer of geology, for, although it left no doubt as to which layer was above which, it caused new layer after new layer to come to the surface, open to investigation, as he passed across country upon his work of canal making. His genius worked under the luckiest conditions.

But in mountain regions the disarrangement may be much more serious. In the Alps it is common enough to see layers of rock standing on edge, or even turned quite up side down; and in some regions, as in parts of the Scotish Highlands, the pressure has been so great that the rocks have been what we may call accordion-pleated—thrown into a whole series of deep folds, so that when seen in section on an exposed face they look like a fan.

H. G. Wells

Not only that, but what the geologists call faulting may take place. Under the stresses and strains of mountain-building or of earthquake, great layers of rock may crack across, and one side slip down or be forced up and made to ride over the other side.

At the time of the San Francisco earthquake a fault hundreds of miles long was produced, in which the whole country to one side of the crack fell suddenly from five to ten feet, but in mountain regions areas of rock may be faulted down hundreds of feet.

During these magnificent crumplings, whole pages of the record have been made altogether illegible. Even when life has succeeded in writing its story on the rocks, the writing has too often been obliterated again.

The rock layers may be subjected to colossal pressure under great depths of newer deposits, or scorched by contact with huge intruding lakes of molten material from below, so that any contained fossils are squeezed, distorted, or baked out of recognition or even out of existence. The rocks themselves change their very character.

Such transformed rocks are called metamorphic; marble, for instance, is thus metamorphosed out of limestone, quartzite or gneiss out of sandstone, and so forth.

This difficulty becomes more serious as we go further back in the record. For rain and wind and frost never stop their scouring and splitting and wearing, and the younger sediments must all be derived from the debris of the old.

Whole mountain ranges, with their contained fossils, have been destroyed, worn down to level plateaus to furnish material for new layers, often hundreds or thousands of feet thick, which in their turn will be upheaved, and in their turn eroded away. Entire chapters of the Book of Earth have thus been pulped to furnish material for new pages.

Luckily, however, the makings of the book went on simultaneously in many regions, each one often of huge extent, and it is rare that all the record of a whole age have perished.

Then we must remember that fossilization is the fate of very few animals and plants. Only one in a million makes its mark in the Book of Life. The great majority of dead things simply decay and disappear and their material is returned to the general circulation of Nature to be built up into the bodies of new organisms.

But it should be remembered it is preserved more permanently; it falls into mud or silt or some place where the bacteria of decay cannot get at it. Insects have been caught and sealed and preserved for countless years in amber.

The bodies of mammoths can be dug out of frozen mud-cliffs in Siberia with the skin and flesh still preserved. And even when the flesh decays away the bones may escape the dissolving action of rain or other waters and ultimately find their way into the paleontologist's cabinet.

Tom Moody's Funeral

It Was Cheerful

(Copyright, 1930)

THE "VIEW HALLOO AT THE GRAVE"

TOM MOODY, whose funeral is illustrated here, was a hard-riding Britisher while he lived and planned to be a cheerful corpse when death came. Here you see his funeral.

His body has been lowered into the grave and the mourners, hat in hand, are shouting at the top of their lungs, giving the "view halloo."

It is the halloo that is uttered in the hunting field when the fox is "viewed," first seen.

The man that sees the swiftly-running animal yells "gone away." Hounds and horses know what it means, and the hunt is on.

Tom Moody was "whipper-in" for Mr. George Forester's pack of foxhounds in Shropshire.

No man rode harder, no man was more sincerely convinced that the only thing on earth worth while was fox hunting.

His business was to keep the hounds at their work. Cracking his whip, with long lash, he was up in front "whipping-in" any hound that strayed from the business of the day, shouting and hallooing as he went, taking everything as it came, small jumps and big.

He told his friends that he wanted to be buried as he had lived. And he requested all that attended his funeral to give the "view halloo" as he was lowered into the grave.

Doubtless the simple-minded Moody thought that when he reached the bottom of the grave he would "view" the promised land, thought that it would produce a good effect on the inhabitants if he came among them with a loud "halloo" to announce his coming.

At the right of the picture you observe one of Tom Moody's horses that had carried him faithfully.

Fastened to the horse's back are the riding boots of the dead man, never more to be filled.

We do not recommend such a funeral or praise Tom Moody's idea unreservedly.

But to take a cheerful view of death, which we all must face and know, is better than to shiver and shake at the thought of it.

"Who knows but on their sleep may rise
Such light as never heaven let through
To lighten earth from Paradise."

If "Life is a watch or a vision
Between a sleep and a sleep."

The best thing is to be faithful while you are "on watch" in this life, trusting that the sleep to follow will trouble you no more than the sleep which preceded it, of which you know nothing.

Tom Moody preferred cheerfulness and the "view halloo" to gloom and fears. Sound philosophy.

Listen, World!

YOU MUST GO THROUGH A DOOR

LIFE is like a big house. There are many rooms in it. You grow by passing from one room to another.

When you are a tiny child you live in the warm, sweet room of babyhood. After a while you begin to grow restless. You want to get out of that tiny room into the next room, where you will be a big boy or a big girl of six.

Elsie Robinson

So presently your little feet slip unconsciously across the threshold, and you are in that next room. And then, soon, you are crossing another threshold into adolescence—into maturity—and so on and on into the many rooms of your life. Rooms where you are to live a little while and then pass on.

• • •

You're remembering some of those rooms now, aren't you? Those first few working years—they were a room all by themselves, weren't they? You did a lot of growing in that room. Your college years. Those first, honeymoon years of marriage, before the babies came.

THOSE bad, jumbled years when you were getting into one mess after another — thank heaven, you're out of that room! That black period after little Ed died, when Jane and Ed Itself caused you to exist . . . when you just went on, fumbling through the darkness.

Rooms—all of them. Rooms of your experience, in which you've lived and learned—through which you've passed when you were ready for the next room.

Sometimes you could see the door through which you passed. That chance to go into business with Jones. That was a real door into a new life. The night Will asked you to marry him, Rose. That was another real door, marking off the old life from the new.

GRADUATION from H—that was another door, wasn't it, little partner? Doors—so many doors. Pleasant doors. And some that aren't so pleasant. Some that are so narrow and dark that we don't realize they are doors at all.

Pain and loss . . . failure and humiliation . . . struggle and grief . . . we can't realize that those dark places are doorways. We think they're traps. We hate them and try to avoid them, and struggle, bitterly, when we find ourselves passing through them. And, sometimes, rather than endure them, we refuse to pass on . . . and stay in our old room that we should have outgrown.

BUT, if we have the courage to go on, we do find that they are doors—doors that open into the noblest rooms of all.

If you want life you must go through a doorway. The rooms will not open to you of their own accord. You must find your way into them, through a passage—and often, in passing, you will be scarred. But it's worth it!
